RABID OBJECTORS TO CONSCRIPTION

Montreal and Quebec May Resort to Martial Law as Result of Clashes Between Street Mobs and Returned Soldiers.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Montreal, May 28.—The proclamation of martial law as a result of serious anti-conscription demonstrations in Montreal is being urged. It was reported today that ball cartridges have been served out to militia regiments charged with keeping order here, and that effective measures will be used with the first serious outbreak.

Anti-conscription meetings are being held daily, and so far the demonstrations, with a few isolated instances of rowdyism, have been limited to bitter words. However, danger of a clash between returned soldiers and the mobs which are nightly marching through the streets shouting, "Down with conscription," is causing commanding officials disquiet. Only the urgent appeals of Mayor Hall and Lieut. Col. Laprohon prevented 300 returned soldiers from sallying forth to avenge two of their comrades who had been hissed by one of the mobs.

The hurried departure of Colonel Blondin and several other officers for the capitol led to a report that a declaration of martial law would soon go into effect. Quebec is the home of the more rabid objectors to conscription and Montreal the center of their activities. As a result serious trouble is predicted when the government enforces conscription.

Ottawa, May 28.—A complete reconstruction of the cabinet will be the result of the conscription issue which will be brought to a head in parliament this week through statements by Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

According to the Ottawa Citizen four and perhaps five or six of the present minstry will step out. The Citizen hints that a coalition government is not improbable.

The Citizen also says that parliament is more concerned over conscription and the situation that will grow out of it than any other issue now before it, and declares that "a national emergency seems to be coming."

The ministers who, it is reported, may step aside, according to the Citizen, are Frank Cochrane, minister of railways; Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture; Dr. Roche, minister of the interior, and T. W. Crothers, minister of labor.

CAVALRY WILL FIGHT DISMOUNTED

No Demand for Cavalry in Europe, so National Guard Regiments Will Enter the Federal Service Without Horses.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 28.—Cavalry organizations now included in the National Guard of the states will be ordered into the federal service dismounted, the war department definitely decided today. No new units will be used.

The fact that there are 25 regiments of cavalry in the regular army at the present time, and because no request for mounted units has been received from France, is the reason for the decision of the war department to discourage the organization of new units among the state troops.

The men now taking cavalry instruction in the officers' reserve corps training camps, will be given assignments in field artillery units or in infantry organizations, the department indicated today. The cavalry units now in the national guard will be called out with the guardsmen on July 15, July 25, and August 5, but the cavalry men will go to the concentration camps without mounts and will be given intensive teaching rather with the field artillery units or infantry brigades.

The 25 regiments of cavalry now in the regular army will not be disturbed, but may be held in reserve for use on the Mexican border or for other uses.

The militia bureau has received reports from all the states showing the condition of the cavalry units now in state service. The mounted troops in the guard now total four regiments, fourteen separate squadrons, forty-seven separate troops, two headquarters troops, seven machine gun troops and two supply troops.

BUT WHERE IS ROOSEVELT?

Poilus' Question Repeated by Ex-Premier Georges Clemenceau.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Paris, May 28.—Georges Clemenceau, former premier of France, has addressed an open letter to President Wilson in the newspaper L'Homme Enchaine, asking him to allow Colonel Roosevelt to come to France. M. Clemenceau says in part:

"We have just heard of the arrival of the first American unit on our front. All our hearts beat. With what joy our soldiers greeted the starry banner! Yet, you must know, Mr. President, more than one of our poilus asked his comrade: 'But where is Roosevelt?'"

MANY PRISONERS TAKEN BY ITALY

Heavy Losses Inflicted Upon Austrians, 24,000 of Whom are Taken Captive in Thrust Toward Trieste—Aircraft Play Important Part.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, May 28.—Captures made by the Italians in their latest thrust towards Trieste have brought the total number of Austro-Hungarian prisoners taken since May 14 up to nearly 24,000. The losses inflicted upon the Austro-Hungarians in the latest burst of fighting between Castanavizza and the Adriatic sea were very heavy. Important gains were made in two sectors. North of Duino the Italians pressed forward to the edge of the fortified village of Medeazza and at Castanavizza the village was captured by storm, but later the Austro-Hungarians attacked and the Italians had to give up all the western side.

Fighting for the possession of these two points is in progress today with big duels raging on the other sections of the Carso plateau.

The front over which these gains were made is about three miles wide.

Farther north on the Plava-Montezano line, by a brilliant action, the Italians now dominate the northern of the Paliova valley. Strategic heights were taken from the Austro-Hungarians, allowing the Italians to link up their lines of Monte Cucco with those of Hill Number 363.

On the Trentino front the counter drive of the Austro-Hungarians, started evidently as a diversion, has broken down, at least for the time being, according to dispatches from the fighting zone.

Aircraft are playing an important part in the fighting along the Isonzo and the Carso plateau. The Italian airmen, noted for their daring and skill, are continually raiding military depots behind the Austro-Hungarian lines.

The Austro-Hungarians are relying mainly upon machine guns for defensive purposes. Their tactics in battle are similar to those of the Germans in France. Strong dugouts and caverns have been tunneled into the mountain sides, where the soldiers remain hidden during bombardments. When the Italian infantry rushes forward those of the Teutons who are not too dazed by the shell fire to do so, lug their machine guns to the surface and open fire.

THIN BLUE LINES ATTEND MEMORIAL

The Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady Delivers Sermon to Members of Pratt Post—Roster of Members Who Have Died During Year.

In spite of the bad weather Sunday evening a number of the members of Pratt Post, G. A. R., turned out and attended the memorial services held in the Elmendorf Street Presbyterian Church. The services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Putnam Cady, pastor of the church. The entire service was conducted along military lines and the members of Pratt Post, G. A. R., marched into the church while the choir sang "Onward Christian Soldiers." The entire program including the hymns were of a military nature. At the close of the services "Tenting Tonight" was sung by the members of the choir and the bugler sounded taps.

Dr. Cady gave a very interesting talk and the names of the members of Pratt Post who have died since the last memorial services were read. During the past year fourteen members have passed away. These are:

Ephraim R. DeWitt
Dr. Herman Craft
Adam Hutton
Urban Hamburger
Jacob Ostrander
Abba G. Slater
James H. Terwilliger
DeWitt Van Bumble
Hezekiah Carle
Joseph Shelightner
Harvey L. Davis
James S. Hasbrouck
John W. Clearwater
Abram T. Drake.

Following the reading of the names of the members of the post who have died since last year, the choir sang "Tenting Tonight." Each year the services are attended by a gradually diminishing number of survivors of the Civil War as the ranks grow thinner and those who still survive become feeble and unable to attend. There are but a few over half a hundred members of the Post who still survive and many of these were unable to attend the services Sunday.

It Was Not Raymond Boss.

Through an error it was stated in Saturday's Freeman that the young lad accused of stealing a bicycle from in front of Fuller's shirt factory had returned the wheel to a young man named Raymond Boss who had restored it to the owner. It was not Raymond Boss who restored the wheel but another young man named Boss and Raymond Boss had nothing to do with it.

STIFF FINES FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

New Motor Vehicle Traffic Law to Cut Down Traffic Accidents is Belief—Many Copies to be Circulated Through the State.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, May 28.—Brimful with provisions for the uniform regulation of vehicles, animals and pedestrians on the highways of this state, the Welsh bill, signed by Governor Whitman last Friday, is expected to go far in decreasing the number of deaths and accidents in which automobiles have largely figured. The widest publicity is to be given the bill which becomes effective immediately. An order for 150,000 copies has been placed by Secretary of State Hugo. One will be sent to every person or concern registering a motor vehicle from now on. Copies are also to be sent to every police department of the state for posting in garages, stables, street car barns, hack and cab stands.

Certain provisions of the bill, though drastic, are believed necessary in view of the tremendous number of cars in this state and a corresponding increase in the number of accidents attributable more or less directly to motor vehicles.

According to figures which have just been furnished to Secretary of State Hugo by the National Highways Protective Society, 109 deaths from autos have occurred in New York during the first four months of this year, a gain of 19 over a like period in 1916. Outside of the metropolis there have been 77 deaths so far this year in which automobiles have figured, 22 more than a year ago. It is expected that the uniform traffic law, strictly complied with, will check this alarming increase.

The Welsh uniform traffic act was originally drawn by the state conference of mayors. Among some of its many provisions are:

Motor vehicles shall not pass or approach within seven feet of a street car receiving or discharging passengers.

Motor muffler cut-outs are prohibited on any highway within the limits of the city or incorporated village.

Gong and siren whistles cannot be used on any vehicle except ambulances, police patrols, fire apparatus or vehicles operated by a sheriff, authorized public utility company, when an emergency calls, and the mail and military service.

Tank riding on motorcycles is prohibited. A person can be carried only on a seat in the rear of the driver with foot rests and hand grip.

A vehicle, unless confined to tracks, shall not tow more than one other vehicle with the connection between not exceeding 16 feet. Each towed vehicle must have an attendant.

Stiff fines are permissible under the act, reckless driving being made punishable for a first offense by a fine up to $100, while a second offender may be fined up to $100 and jailed for 6 months.

WALL STREET OPINION DIVIDED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 28.—While Wall street opinion was divided today as to whether a war boom market is under way, many holding that the least unfavorable news will start a slump, U. S. Steel common led a continuation of last week's bull movement, selling up ⅞ at 135 during the first few minutes. The figure was another high record.

When President Wilson announced the break with Germany, Wall street was the scene of great demonstrations, even the conservative traders predicting an era of great prosperity and mounting prices. Several times since the short lived spurts of bull trading have raised the cry that the predicted bull market had started. But each time government price fixing or taxation plans, or some other unfavorable news stopped the boom.

The market has at last had a million-share trade average for a full week, during which 35 leading stocks made net gains of more than 5 points U. S. Steel and Crucible Steel leading with gains of more than 11 points each. Today's absorbing question in the financial district was: "Has the crest been reached?"

There was a broad demand for Steel common at the opening today, with the first sale reported at 10,000 shares at 134¾ and 134⅞. After the first transaction the price reached to 134⅝ but from there quickly moved up on heavy buying to the new high record of 135. Other steel shares made advances in the first few minutes, and violent gains were made in some of the specialties with Ohio Cities Gas advancing 3⅜ to 140⅛.

Within a short time, however, speculative interests which concentrated in the railroad shares, with Union Pacific moving up 1½ to 138 and gains of 1 to 2 points were made in many other stocks in this group.

TORNADO VICTIMS WILL NUMBER 500

Towns in Illinois, Kentucky and Three Other States Devastated by Twister and 2,500 in Wounded are in Temporary Hospitals—Wire Communication Cut Off in Many Places.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, May 28.—At least 500 persons were killed and hundreds wounded in a tornado which swept down the Mississippi river last night, according to meager reports gathered from the Murphyesboro and Willisville, Ill., and towns in Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and Louisiana. The property loss may exceed $5,000,000.

The tornado struck at widely separated points, and while not as destructive as the twister which took a death toll of 101 in four Indiana and four Illinois towns Saturday, it was as ferocious while it lasted.

The tornado traveled slowly both days. Suspended from a storm cloud the funnel of death swung to and fro like an elephant's trunk in search of food. It veered away from rich sections and with a roar like heavy cannonading, seemed to particular towns as especial victors of its fury.

The death-dealing cloud at times left spaces in its path or from five to ten miles wide free from damage.

In its wide sweep Saturday the tornado wreaked havoc in Macupine, Christian, Moultrie, Coles and Clark counties.

Moulton is in Coles county. At Charleston it veered to the southeast, swept through Westfield and Casey and then apparently satisfied with its day's work, withdrew into the parent cloud and disappeared. Yesterday the cyclone followed the east bank of the Mississippi, originating near Murphyesboro, Ill., and gathering terrific momentum as it proceeded, it struck with terrific force at Willisville and towns in Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas and Alabama. The small hospitals at river cities are reported to be overcrowded with dying and injured. Rescue parties which departed late last night have not been heard from since they reported being forced to discard vehicles because of fallen trees and proceed afoot.

The excursion steamer Sidney, which left Paducah, Ky., yesterday morning bound for Cairo, Ill., has not been heard from. Wire communication has been cut off from most points east on the river.

Early today 54 bodies had been identified at Mattoon, 37 at Charleston, Ill., 3 at Joliet, 5 at Hebron, Ind., and two at Koub, Ind. A mayor's committee at Cairo decided to try to raise $3,000,000 relief fund, when the extent of the damage became known. Four hundred and ninety-six dwellings were totally destroyed there and 3,500 persons were made homeless. The property loss will exceed $1,000,000.

In Charleston 1,600 are homeless, the property loss is $1,000,000 and the farmers located between the two places suffered an additional loss of $1,000,000 in buildings and crops destroyed.

The property loss in Indiana was estimated at $1,500,000.

Great numbers of live stock lay strewn about the fields in the path of the twister in both states. The number of houses destroyed in Hebron and Koub has not been ascertained, as both towns are cut off from wire communication.

At Mattoon, the public library, memorial hospital, churches and the American hotel are filled with dying and wounded, estimated at over 2,500. Red Cross nurses have arrived from Danville. More than 100 physicians are here from nearby cities. Both Mattoon and Charleston are practically under martial law, khaki-clad militiamen patrolling the streets.

Paducah, Ky., May 28.—Meager reports available today indicate that at least 50 persons have lost their lives in the cyclone wrecked path along the east bank of the Mississippi between Tiptonville, Tenn., and Hickman, Ky.

A telephone message from Hickman said 13 persons were killed on two plantations near there. Four towns in Tennessee—Clinton, Bordell, Moscow and Dublin—were reported to have been almost wiped out.

Bonduant, Ky., reported that 18 bodies had been recovered there and Ledford, Ky., reported 17 dead.

Blythville, Ark., May 28.—Advices reaching here today from the cyclone-swept district said eight persons were killed on farms near Tighern. One fatality was reported at Clear Lake.

St. Louis, May 28.—Five lives were lost in the tornado-swept Murphyesboro, Ill., Sunday, according to information reaching here today. Considerable property damage was done. Many cattle were killed. The Mobile and Ohio railroad station at Willisville was reported demolished and half of the town wiped out, but no fatalities occurred.

At Dyersburg, Tenn., a toll of six lives was taken and in South Dyersburg, a suburb, by the tornado. Over 30 persons were injured. A score of buildings, including several churches, were demolished.

Food Riots Threaten.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 28.—Unless food can be rapidly provided, a repetition of the East Side food riots is imminent, according to the East Side Protective Association. Soaring food prices and other commodities are causing intense suffering, the food committee of the association reports. School children and many working women are said to be suffering from mal-nutrition.

NEW CORPORATIONS A BUSINESS INDEX

Activity in Secretary of State's Office Shows a Wide Variety of Industries in Formative Stage—War's Influence Shown in Purposes of Many.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, May 28.—There perhaps is no more accurate indicator of business activity in the state than the office of the secretary of state where are filed all the incorporation papers of the industries doing a manufacturing business from Buffalo to Montauk Point. In that office during the past few weeks have been filed the incorporation papers of various new industries, some of which represent a large investment of capital.

Since the beginning of the war, several years ago, there has been a marked increase in the firms formed for the purpose of manufacturing chemicals, but of late not so much attention has been paid to this commodity, which generally included the making of dye-stuffs. Instead the corporations which have been incorporated state in many instances that the purpose of their existence is to make underwear, knit goods in general, hosiery etc.

Concerns to manufacture munitions of war, aeroplanes and to establish schools where the science of aerial navigation might be taught have come in for considerable recognition also, while not a few companies have been formed to carry on ocean trading pursuits.

Since the United States has been engaged in the war, the ideas and ideals of those who have an eye to the needs of the state and nation have changed somewhat. During the past week there have been a number of corporations formed and granted certificates of incorporation by Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo, with the object in view to manufacture hospital supplies.

To many this is a significant indication. That there will be a need for supplies of this character is evidently the belief of men of business foresight and financial means. Millions are to be investd in corporations of this nature. But recently two such corporations were formed, the capital stock in the aggregate being most substantial.

A great amount of money seems to have been invested also in transportation and trading companies, if the certificates of incorporation tell the true story. Companies which state in their certificates of incorporation that the object is to conduct a trading business "over seas," would lead one to think that the merchant marine plan in New York state was already well under way.

There is a branch of work which the clerks in the corporation bureau of the department of the secretary of state have also to transact; the tabulating and keeping track of the corporations which voluntarily dissolve. There have not been many of these certificates filed of late. While there have been some, the number of new incorporations taking their place overshadows them so as to practically obscure them.

Strange as it may appear, amusement corporations appear to be on the increase. Moving picture concerns are continually springing up and there is scarce a day that one or more are not granted the right to do business after having paid to the secretary of state the necessary fee.

Among the membership corporations, many have recently been filed along patriotic lines, illustrating that the spirit of Americanism is alive and keyed up to the present situation.

PEACOCK REUNION SERVICES TONIGHT

A big reunion service will be held this evening at the Delaware Avenue Tabernacle when the Rev. L. K. Peacock and his evangelistic party will be present and have charge of the services. All members of the chorus choir who took part the past winter in the services are urged to occupy their old seats on the platform to take part in the song service in charge of Mr. Warth. Everyone is urged to bring their song book who attends. A collection will be taken to defray expenses.

FOR GERMAN REPUBLIC.

Provisional Revolutionary Committee Formed to Dethrone the Kaiser.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 28.—With the dethronement of the kaiser and the establishment of a democratic government in Germany as its objectives, a provisional revolutionary committee has been formed in this country. Known as "Friends of the German Republic," the new organization under the leadership of J. Koettgen has begun an active propaganda to secure support for the movement. It has opened headquarters here.

A circular issued by the "Friends" in urging the establishment of a German republic, declares: "There are men and women in Germany now struggling and scheming to bring about that happy event." It further declares that the Russian revolution gave tremendous impetus to the movement within Germany.

ENGLAND EXPECTS MORE AIR RAIDS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, May 28.—A warning to the people of England to look for greater and more disastrous raids was sounded by the press today in commenting upon last Friday's attack when 76 persons were killed.

Germany is believed to have resolved upon another big effort to spread a reign of terror in England, using both aircraft and submarines for the purpose.

The first reprisal undertaken by the Allies for the wanton killing of women and children was carried out not against an open German city, but against armed military and naval bases in Belgium.

Allied air squadrons, including British, French and Belgian machines, bombarded Zeebrugge, Heist and Blanckenberghe on Sunday night, throwing down a large amount of high explosives upon the German works. The attack against the U-boat base at Zeebrugge was especially severe.

CYCLONE PEPORTED BREAKING UP

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 28.—Reports to the United States weather bureau today indicated that yesterday's death-dealing cyclone over the Mississippi valley has spent its force and is now breaking up into separate thunder storms.

The cyclone today centers over Indiana, according to the weather bureau reports. It is moving eastward with greatly diminished power. Heavy thunder storms are reported over Kentucky, Tennessee, Indiana, the southern Atlantic and the gulf states.

The weather bureau looks for no further devastation on a great scale, although the thunder storms themselves are likely to do some damage.

Chicago, May 28.—With reports in from only a part of the wide area that was swept by a series of terrific storms and tornadoes in the last three days, it was estimated today that at least 220 persons were killed, 1,066 were injured, and thousands were homeless. Property losses were variously estimated, the most conservative total placing the loss at about $5,000,000.

Following the tornado that attacked the vicinity of Andale, Kas., on Friday, a second and more violent storm swept from the Mississippi river eastward across the state of Illinois late Saturday afternoon, and leaped into Indiana, while another branch of the tornado hurled itself down the east bank of the Mississippi, striking many towns in Kentucky, and Tennessee, and reaching its death dealing hands into Alabama and Arkansas.

The heaviest death toll was reported from central Illinois, where 54 persons were killed and 500 injured at Mattoon and 38 were killed and 150 injured at Charleston. In other Illinois towns, latest reports indicated a total of at least 18 persons were killed.

At Mattoon, Ill., national guardsmen were on duty and a corps of physicians were working today to prevent pestilence.

At Springfield, Ill., Governor Lowden began early today to plan a campaign that would relieve the suffering at Mattoon, Charleston and other Illinois towns swept by the tornado.

Memphis, Tenn., May 28.—Estimates compiled here from reports filtering in over badly crippled lines of communication, indicated that 15 persons were dead in Tennessee and Arkansas, as the result of the cyclones that swept through these states. Greneda, Miss., suffered some property loss, but no deaths were related in the meager dispatches from there today. Dyersburg, Tenn., was struck hardest of any Tennessee city by the storm. Six persons were reported killed there.

MRS. REED HAS RETURNED.

Mrs. C. N. Reed has returned from Washington, D. C., where she was the guest of Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoes, while attending the National Red Cross War Council, as a delegate from the Ulster County Chapter. Mrs. Reed will give an account of the meeting to the executive committee meeting of the local chapter to be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the supreme court chambers.

Following the morning session of the War Council the delegates were taken by the women of the automobile corps of the Washingon chapter of the Red Cross, to Fort Myer. Luncheon, a canteen luncheon, precisely such as is served the troops as they pass through Washington, was served the guests, by the refreshment corps of the local chapter. After the luncheon, the guests were taken about the officers' training camp and through Arlington cemetery before they were returned to the afternoon and last session.

NO EXCUSE FOR A FAILURE IN DUTY

Registration Must be Made in Person at Polling Places or by Cards in Event of Absence—Many Non-Residents Obtain Blanks.

A slight misunderstanding exists in regard to the place of registration of all male residents on Tuesday, June 5th, in accordance with the President's proclamation and the act of Congress.

Registration on that day will be held at the usual polling place in each election district of Ulster county. The hours for registration will be from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m., and the registration branks will be filled out by the registrars whose names already have been published in The Freeman. All males who by that time shall have reached their twenty-first birthday and have not yet reached their thirty-first birthday will be required to appear personally for registration, except that non-residents, and those who will be out of the county on that day or who are ill, must at once procure cards from County Clerk Loughran, which cards when properly filled out must be forwarded to the registrars of the home districts of the persons so registered, in care of the sheriff of their county. The sheriff will see that such cards are delivered to the election precinct registrars on that day. A large number of non-residents have registered on the blanks at the county clerk's office, and such cards have been mailed to the registrars of the home districts of the persons so registering, but there are many non-residents who have not yet applied at the county clerk's office to be registered.

No excuse can be accepted for failure to register, and failure to register is punishable by imprisonment.

SPARKS FROM THE WAR ANVIL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington.—President Wilson is expected personally to mediate all differences regarding policy which have arisen between General Goethals and the shipping board over the construction program of the board.

Washington.—President Wilson is expected to back up Secretary McAdoo's contention that congress must raise by taxation at least $1,800,000,000 despite the growing sentiment in congress to reduce this amount at least half a billion.

Washington.—It is considered almost certain that before the artillery forces of the United States get into action on European soil, all horse-drawn weapons will have been eliminated, the places of the mules and horses being taken by a new improved tractor.

Petrograd—Leaders of the all-Russia council of Peasant Deputies, which is in session here, have gone on record against a separate peace. They are calling upon the army and navy to continue fighting Germany. The hundred sailors from the Black sea fleet and workmen from the southern arsenals have stimulated patriotism in Petrograd by their visit here.

Amsterdam—That the turbulent political conditions in Austria-Hungary have begun to arouse apprehension in Berlin, is evident from dispatches received from the German capital today. The questions of peace terms and continued German domination over the dual monarchy are the chief issues involved.

London—The German garrisons in Fontaine-les-Croisilles and Cherisy, on the Arras front, are living in a rain of shells. North and south of the Sensee river, British batteries of all calibres have been hurling steel into the wreckage of the village for many days. Neither by night nor by day is there any pause in the work of blasting the German trenches and the underground fortresses, thus paving the way for fresh infantry advances in that region.

Vienna.—More than 13,000 Italian prisoners have been captured by the Austro-Hungarians in the past sixteen days, according to a war office communication made public today. It added that violent fighting has been in progress along the lower end of the Isonzo line and on Carso plateau, where Italian assaults were repulsed. The battles are still in progress.

The Mule Was Neutral.

This morning a horse attached to one of the ice delivery wagons of the Binnewater Lake Ice Company took a kick at the high cost of ice and kicked over the pole of the wagon, becoming tangled up in the harness and finally falling down. The companion in harness of the horse was a mule and during the entire fracas the mule remained strictly neutral never once making a kick at the high cost of ice or anything else. A large crowd rapidly gathered and with the assistance of Manager Hook, of the Farm Bureau, and other expert onlookers the harness was untangled and the horse gotten on its feet again. Outside a little broken harness there was little damage done and the work of delivering ice was again resumed. The fracas took place at the corner of John and Crown streets in front of the Farm Bureau.

New Motor Vehicle Traffic Law to Cut Down Traffic Accidents is Belief—Many Copies to be Circulated Through the State

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany May 28—Brimful with provisions for the uniform regulation of vehicles animals and pedestrians on the highways of this state the Welsh bill signed by Governor Whitman last Friday is expected to go far in decreasing the number of deaths and accidents in which automobiles have largely figured The widest publicity is to be given the bill which becomes effective immediately An order for 150 000 copies has been placed by Secretary of State Hugo One will be sent to every person or concern registering a motor vehicle from now on Copies are also to be sent to every police department of the state for posting in garages stables street car barns hack and cab stands

Certain provisions of the bill though [illegible] are believed necessary in view of the tremendous number of cars in this state and a corresponding increase in the number of accidents attributable more or less directly to motor vehicles

According to figures which have just been furnished to Secretary of State Hugo by the National Highways Protective Society 109 deaths from auto have occurred in New York during the first four months of this year a gain of 19 over a like period in 1916 Outside of the metropolis there have been 77 deaths so far this year in which automobiles have figured [illegible] more than a year ago It is expected that the uniform traffic law strictly complied with will check the alarming increase

The Welsh uniform traffic act was originally drawn by the state conference of mayors Among some of its many provisions are

Motor vehicles shall not pass or approach within seven feet of a street car receiving or discharging passengers

Motor muffler cut outs are prohibited on any highway within the limits of the city or incorporated village

Gong and siren whistles cannot be used on any vehicle except ambulances police patrols fire apparatus or vehicles operated by a sheriff authorized public utility company when an emergency calls and the mail and military service

TORNADO VICTIMS WILL NUMBER 500

Towns in Illinois Kentucky and Three Other States Devastated by Twister and 2 500 in Wounded are in Temporary Hospitals—Wire Communication Cut Off in Many Places

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Chicago May 28—At least 400 persons were killed and hundreds wounded in a tornado which swept down the Mississippi river last night according to meager reports gathered from the Murphysboro and Willisville Ill and towns in Kentucky Tennessee Arkansas and Louisiana The property loss may exceed $5 000 000

The tornado struck at widely separated points and while not as destructive as the twister which took a death toll of 101 in four Indiana and four Illinois towns Saturday it was as ferocious while it lasted

The tornado traveled slowly both days Suspended from a storm cloud the funnel of death swung to and fro like an elephant's trunk in search of food It veered away from rich sections and with a roar like heavy cannonading seemed to particular towns as especial victors of its fury

The death dealing cloud at times left spaces in its path of from five to ten miles wide free from damage

In its wide sweep Saturday the tornado wrecked havoc in Macon Christian Moultrie Coles and Clark counties

Moulton is in Coles county At Charleston it veered to the southeast swept through Westfield and Casey and then apparently finished with its day's work withdrew into the parent cloud and disappeared Yesterday the cyclone followed the east bank of the Mississippi originating near Murphysboro Ill and gathering [illegible] as it proceeded [illegible] struck with terrific force [illegible] Kentucky Tennessee Alabama and Alabama The small hospitals [illegible] [illegible] with dying and injured Rescue parties which departed [illegible] last night have not been heard from since they reported being forced to discard vehicles because of fallen trees and proceed afoot

The excursion steamer Sidney which left Paducah Ky [illegible] day [illegible] bound for Cairo Ill has not been heard from Wire communication has been cut off from most points east on the river

[illegible] identified at Mattoon [illegible] at Charleston Ill [illegible] at Joliet [illegible] at Hebron Ind and two at Kouts Ind A mayor's committee at Cairo decided to try to raise $3 000 000 relief fund when the extent of the damage became known Four hundred and ninety six dwellings were totally destroyed there and 3 500 persons were made homeless The property loss will exceed $1 000 000

In Charleston 1 600 are homeless the property loss is $1 000 000 and the farmers located between the two places suffered an additional loss of $1 000 000 in buildings and crops destroyed

The property loss in Indiana was estimated at $1 000 000

Great numbers of live stock lay strewn about the fields in the path of the twister in both states The number of houses destroyed in Hebron and Kouts has not been ascertained as both towns are cut off from wire communication

At Mattoon the public library memorial hospital churches and the American hotel are filled with dying and wounded estimated at over [illegible] Red Cross nurses have arrived from Danville More than 100 physicians are here from nearby cities Both Mattoon and Charleston are practically under martial law Khaki clad militiamen patrolling the streets

Paducah Ky May 28—Meager reports available today indicate that at least 50 persons have lost their lives in the cyclone wrecked path along the east bank of the Mississippi between Tiptonville Tenn and Hickman Ky

A telephone message from Hickman said 17 persons were killed on two plantations near there Four towns in Tennessee—Clinton Bordell Moscow and Dublin—were reported to have been almost wiped out

Bondurant Ky reported that 18 bodies had been recovered there and Tedford Ky reported 17 dead

Blytheville Ark May 28—Advices reaching here today from the cyclone swept district said eight persons were killed on farms near Tighern One fatality was reported at Clear Lake

NEW CORPORATIONS A BUSINESS INDEX

Activity in Secretary of State's Office Shows a Wide Variety of Industries in Formative Stage—War's Influence Shown in Purposes of Many

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany May 28—There perhaps is no more accurate indicator of business activity in the state than the office of the secretary of state where are filed all the incorporation papers of the industries doing a manufacturing business from Buffalo to Montauk Point In that office during the past few weeks have been filed the incorporation papers of various new industries some of which represent a large investment of capital

Since the beginning of the war several years ago there has been a marked increase in the firms formed for the purpose of manufacturing chemicals but of late not so much attention has been paid to this company [illegible] which generally [illegible] the making of dye stuffs Instead the corporations which have been incorporated state in many instances that the purpose of their existence is to make underwear knit goods in general hosiery etc

Concerns to manufacture munitions of war aeroplanes and to establish schools where the science of aerial navigation might be taught have come in for considerable recognition also while not a few companies have been formed to carry on ocean trading pursuits

Since the United States has been engaged in the war the ideas and ideals of those who have an eye to the needs of the state and nation have [illegible] somewhat During the past [illegible] there have been a number of corporations formed and granted certificates of incorporation by Secretary of State Francis M Hugo with the object in view to manufacture hospital supplies

To many this is a significant indication That there will be a need for supplies of this character is evidently the belief of men of business foresight and financial means Millions are to be invested in corporations of this nature But recently two new corporations were formed the capital stock in the aggregate being most substantial

A great amount of money seems to have been invested also in transportation and trading companies [illegible] certificates of incorporation tell the [illegible] story Companies which state in their certificates of incorporation that the object is to conduct a trading business overseas would lead one to think that the merchant marine plan in New York state was already well under way

The [illegible] branch of work which the clerks in the corporation bureau of the department of the secretary of state have also to transact the [illegible] auditing and keeping track of the corporations which voluntarily dissolve There have not been many of these certificates filed of late While there have been some the number of new incorporations taking their place overshadows them so as to practically obscure them

Strange as it may appear amusement corporations appear to be on the increase Moving picture concerns are continually springing up and there is scarce a day that one or more are not granted the right to do business after having paid to the secretary of state the necessary fee

Among the membership corporations many have recently been filed [illegible] patriotic lines illustrating that the spirit of Americanism is alive and keyed up to the present situation

No Demand for Cavalry in Europe National Guard Regiments Will Enter the Federal Service Without Horses

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington May 28—Cavalry organizations now included in the National Guard of the states will be ordered into the federal service dismounted the war department definitely decided today No new units will be used

The fact that there are 25 regiments of cavalry in the regular army at the present time and because no request for mounted units has been received from France is the reason for the decision of the war department to discourage the organization of new units among the state troops

The men now taking cavalry instruction in the officers' reserve corps training camps will be given assignments in field artillery units or in infantry organizations the department indicated today The cavalry units now in the national guard will be called out with the guardsmen on July 15 July 25 and August 5 but the cavalry men will go to the concentration camps without mounts and will be given intensive teaching rather with the field artillery units or infantry brigades

The 25 regiments of cavalry now in the regular army will not be disturbed but may be held in reserve for use on the Mexican border or for other uses

The militia bureau has received reports from all the states showing the condition of the cavalry units now in state service The mounted troops in the guard now total four regiments fourteen separate squadrons forty-seven separate troops, two headquarters troops seven machine gun troops and two supply troops

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York May 28 While Wall street opinion was divided today as to whether a war boom market is under way many holding that the least unfavorable news will start a slump U S Steel common led a continuation of last week's bull movement selling up to at 135 during the first few minutes The figure was another high record

When President Wilson announced the break with Germany Wall street was the scene of great demonstrations even the conservative traders predicting an era of great prosperity and mounting prices Several times since the short lived spurts of bull trading have raised the cry that the predicted bull market had started But each time government price fixing or taxation plans or some other unfavorable news stopped the boom

The market has at last had a million share trade average for a full week during which 25 leading stocks made net gains of more than 5 point U S Steel and Crucible Steel leading with gains of more than 11 points each Today's absorbing question in the financial district was "Has the crest been reached?"

There was a broad demand for Steel common at the opening today with the first sale reported at 10 000 shares at 134¾ and 134⅞ After the first transaction the price reached to 134⅞ but from there quickly moved up on heavy buying to the new high record of 135 Other steel shares made advances in the first few minutes and violent gains were made in some of the specialties with Ohio Cities Gas advancing 2⅞ to 140⅞

Within a short time however speculative interests which concentrated in the railroad shares with Union Pacific moving up 1½ to 135 and gains of 1 to 2 points were made in many other stocks in this group

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Well, I see where our government is urging people to eat corn in preference to wheat," said the friend to the street corner politician.

"And as soon as they do the price of corn will go up," replied the politician.

"That's just what I was thinking," said the friend.

"That's the way with everything," continued the politician, "for as soon as the people change from one food product to another the price is always jumped."

"What do you suppose causes it?" asked the friend.

"The law of supply and demand," explained the politician.

"I have often heard of that law," said the friend, "but what does it really mean?"

"That is easily explained," replied the politician, "for instance you have a big supply of a certain brand of tobacco on hand in your store, and you also have the same amount of another tobacco of a different brand."

"Shoot along," said the friend as the politician paused.

"Well somebody starts a story that the one brand is better than the other," continued the politician, "and everybody buys that one brand and you are soon sold out, and when you try to get another supply in you find it can't be done, for all over the country people have been doing the same thing in buying the one brand instead of the other."

"I commence to see," interrupted the friend.

"Naturally the brand wanted by the purchasing public is hard to get and the price jumped up," said the politician.

"And of course the same theory applies to other things," said the friend.

"Surely," replied the politician, "for when every one starts buying corn the supply is soon exhausted and unless it can be replenished as cheaply the price shoots up."

"How is one going to overcome the high cost of living then?" queried the friend.

"By eliminating waste," replied the politician, "and by that I mean cutting out all unnecessary waste."

"As for instance," said the friend.

"Why I have been at some houses," continued the politician, "where they have taken and cut an entire loaf of bread. A lot of it is left on the plate and not eaten and gets hard and is thrown away with the garbage and that is waste pure and simple."

"That is easily overcome though," argued the friend.

"It is if people would only wake up to the fact," replied the politician, "and cut the bread just as it is eaten, and the same applies to all other articles of food."

"I heard you say once that you were in favor of the government regulating prices," said the friend.

"And I am still in favor of it," replied the politician.

"For instance I believe that the government can prevent the hoarding up of supplies of food such as eggs, by fixing a maximum price for the product when it is sold," continued the politician, "and by doing that it would do away with food speculation as there would be no reason for hoarding up food supplies when you would not be allowed to sell it at an advance in price."

"Sounds reasonable," commented the friend.

"And I believe it can be worked out too," replied the politician. "Of course I understand that if wheat and other grains are not grown in quanity enough to supply the demand that naturally prices will be high, and the same applies to all food products."

"Do you think the home gardens will have a tendency to lower prices?" asked the friend.

"No I don't," replied the politician.

"How do you make that out?" asked the friend.

"For the simple reason," replied the politician, "that the government will shortly draft an army which means that many men will be taken out of the active walks of commercial life."

"But what has that to do with it?" argued the friend.

"They have to fed 'em, don't they?" queried the politician.

"Yes I understand that," replied the friend.

"And that means that a large amount of food will be needed to feed them," said the politician.

"I know that," replied the friend. "And it means that there will be a scarcity in the labor market which is plain to see," commented the politician.

"I did not look at it in that light," confessed the friend.

"And that means," replied the politician, "that all of the food grown in the home gardens will aid in that amount not having to be bought in the markets and which can be devoted to the purpose of help feeding the army to be raised."

"I guess you are right at that," commented the friend.

A LESSON IN PATRIOTISM.

Written on Stone Slabs Over Graves of Revolutionary Soldiers.

Kingston, N. Y., May 26, 1917.
Editor Freeman:

It will soon be Decoration Day, the graves of the heroes known will be strewn with flowers and their virtues extolled by those, who speak on that occasion.

In Kingston, rich with historic happenings it has been the custom to include other than the Civil War veterans, the revolutionary patriots whose bones many of them are interred almost in our very midst, the First Dutch Church yard being the resting place of so many of the band of illustrious soldiers, who bore the heat and cold of a long seven years' war and partook of the hardships all endured without once flinching in their loyalty and devotion to the common cause. The brown stones and the lichen covered marble teach a lesson of patriotism to all. From General Clinton to the humblest private we should pay tribute to their valor, their lion hearted courage, their unfaltering zeal. In those days, though the weapons of war were not so deadly, nevertheless, the hardships of the wilderness, the poorly clad and slimly fed men, were brought face to face with the stern realities in as strong a manner as today.

It ought to stir the blood of every person as he reads those names. There they are, the Bruyns, the Hasbroucks, the Terpennings, the Clintons, the Tappens, the Van Burens and Wynkoops and so on along and including the flower of the youth and manhood of Kingston one hundred and forty-three years ago.

It is an inspiration to read these old grave stones. Here is Colonel so and so—there Captain so and so, and here a private and it is mete and proper they should be remembered. These men helped to make it possible to have a country, helped to plant the Stars and Stripes as an emblem to be feared and respected, they made our country, and sleeping peacefully under the trees with the green grass above them, in our very midst, as I have stated—let us honor them, let us pay homage to their memory keeping it forever precious and bright. They died that we might have a country, let us show that we are worthy of the heritage, and that the flowers strewn by loving hands are only a renewed fealty of courage and devotion to the liberties they fought to secure.

I am told the graves of eighty-two revolutionary soldiers are within this church yard. May the patriots of that church accept the trust to the end of time and keep them sacred as a loving and enduring monument to these patriotic names.

Teacher's Joys and Tribulations.

A teacher of English tells in the New Republic of his tribulations, one of them being that among the 30,000,000 words he has passed upon in students' papers, "athletics" has appeared 100,000 times! On the other hand, one of his pleasant memories is that of "a delightful lass who defined esthetic as 'something to kill cats with,' and illustrated her definition by the sentence, 'We gave the cat an esthetic.'"

SAVORY DISHES.

Mayonnaise dressing may be varied by adding different chopped vegetables, stirring them into the dressing before adding the whipped cream. A fourth of a cupful of pimentos washed and put through a sieve with a wooden spoon; add to a cupful of mayonnaise dressing and serve it with fish.

Louis Salad.—Cut canned or fresh pineapple in strips an inch long and a fourth of an inch wide and thick; cut two apples in the same manner and squeeze over them the juice of half a lemon. Cut heart stalks of celery in the same way and have an equal quantity of each ingredient. Mix with mayonnaise and serve in heart leaves of lettuce.

Onions Stuffed With Rice.—Parboil the onions, rinse in cold water and remove the centers. Fill with rice that has been cooked tender in broth or milk and water; season with salt, curry powder and tomato catchup. Cover with a buttered paper, add broth to the dish and let the onions cook until tender. Use the liquid in the dish to make a sauce to serve with the onions.

Chocolate Pie.—Scald two cupfuls of milk, mix together a half-cupful of sugar and a fourth of a cupful of cornstarch and a pinch of salt; stir into the hot milk, cook 15 minutes, then add two squares of melted chocolate; beat the yolks of two eggs, add a fourth of a cupful of sugar to them, and turn into the mixture. Fill a baked shell with the chocolate mixture and cover with a meringue made of the whites of the eggs, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a half-teaspoonful of vanilla. Set in the oven until it has browned to a pale amber shade.

Cheese sauce prepared by making a white sauce, using two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour; cook together, then add a cupful of rich milk, and when smooth and free from lumps, add a half-cupful of grated cheese. Serve this with poached eggs, after seasoning well.

RED CROSS MAKES SPLENDID SHOWING

Kingston and Ulster County Branches Complete Hundreds of Articles for Hospital Uses—Many Business Men Sending Aid—Elks Donate $25.

A very inspiring and interesting meeting of all the chairmen of the various Ulster County Auxiliaries of the Red Cross was held Saturday afternoon in supreme court chambers. The meeting was opened by the chairman of the chapter, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, who later turned the meeting which was of technical interest to the women, to Mrs. Fessenden, who presided to the close. Every one of the ten auxiliaries throughout the county, at Ellenville, High Falls, Highland, Milton, Marlborough, New Paltz, Rosendale, Rochester, Saugerties and Woodstock, was represented at the meeting and in addition to reports given, there was much beneficial discussion of the work, and an esprit de corps created that will go far to make exceedingly efficient the work of the Red Cross throughout the entire chapter. The reports of the separate auxiliaries will appear in a subsequent issue of the Freeman, while the following summary of accomplished work throughout the city and county will give a fair idea of the immense amount of most excellent work accomplished by the women of the community within the past seven weeks.

This report was prepared by Mrs. Frederick Slauson, chairman of the County Supplies Committee:

Good Work on Containers.

As the logical complement to this report is one just received from William C. Shafer, chairman of the Containers Committee. Mr. Shafer reports that large boxes have been contributed by the G. A. Hart Company, the L. B. Van Wagenen Company, and M. H. Herzog. Through the generosity of Charles Gray, these boxes were taken to the high school, for remodelling according to specifications, and were again taken from the high school to the chapter house when completed, for the filling for shipment. L. S. Winne Company generously donated nails, screws and hinges for the making of the boxes, and loaned special tools for the work which has been admirably done by the boys in the Manual Training Department of the high school, under the supervision of Mr. Service, joint chairman of the committee with Mr. Shafer.

Mr. Shafer reports that 15 of the large boxes are now ready for shipment to the Bush Terminal, for immediate forwarding to France. There is still on hand only sufficient lumber (from old boxes) for the making of eight or ten more boxes, and any further donations of boxes will be highly appreciated by Mr. Shafer and Mr. Service and the Red Cross.

Donations and Members.

The following are the latest contributions and memberships received:

Contributions: B. P. O. Elks, $25; Colonial Rebekah Lodge, No. 48, I. O. O. F., $30. Members: Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Moore, Alma K. Tyler, Miss Helen Thomas, E. E. Becker, Mrs. J. Allan Wood, Mrs. Arthur H. Wicks, John Gregory, Charles L. McBride, Mrs. Fannie T. Stewart, of Port Ewen; W. H. Snelling, Miss Gertrude Van Santvoord, Mrs. J. Liccardo, Mrs. Howard Osterhoudt, Mrs. Charles Mercer Hall, Miss Mary McAllister Hall, Alton Parker Hall of Esopus, Mrs. C. J. Kelly, Mrs. Peter Elmendorf and Miss Ethel Elmendorf of Hurley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Finch, Mrs. W. H. Finch, Mrs. George Flicker, Dr. and Mrs. Ernest K. Lee, the Rev. Thomas Brown, Dr. Frank Quinlan, Mrs. Edwin C. Dunn of Connelly, Miss Mary Hickey, Miss Dolorita Hickey, Mrs. Nellie Hall Stokes.

Report on National Body.

There will be an important meeting of the executive committee of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross, held in the supreme court chambers, Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, at which time Mrs. Reed, who acted as delegate at the recent National Red Cross War Council in Washington, will give her report of the meeting and the special detailed instructions regarding the campaign for Red Cross week. Every chairman of every committee is asked to be present.

FARM BUREAU ASKS ORDERS FOR SEED

Beans, Buckwheat and Potatoes are Scarce but Prompt Orders will be Filled—Surplus of Seed Corn for Sale.

Manager Hook of the Ulster County Farm Bureau writes The Freeman that there is a great need for the planting of corn, beans and buckwheat. "Our census of Ulster county," he says, "shows that we haven't locally enough of buckwheat or bean seed to supply our demands nor are our dealers able to secure this seed. Through our Farm Bureau and our New York State Food Supply Commission we are able to secure some seed to supply the wants of the farmers. The farmer is prone to wait until the last moment before he attempts to secure seeds. Our association does not want to order seed ahead for two reasons: first, because it is not in the seed business and second, it doesn't wish to bring seeds into the county more than are needed and thus deprive some of our other counties from having seed.

"To assist us in reaching all farmers in the county and providing them with the fundamental seed necessary to produce food for the world will you kindly insert the enclosed letter of notification on corn, beans, buckwheat and potato seed:"

May 26, 1917

Corn, Bean, Buckwheat and Potato Seed.

Farmers of Ulster county:

Three of the most necessary, available, and reliable crops for food production this year are: Corn, beans and buckwheat.

Corn and its products can be substituted for wheat both as human and animal food; beans can be substituted for meat that is costly and found to be scarce; buckwheat is also a substitute for wheat and its products can substitute to some extent meat products.

Corn seed—Our emergency census shows that our county has enough corn to supply its wants and a little to spare. Other counties have not. If you have well matured local grown corn for sale write us, giving your names, address, 'phone number, amount of corn and price per bushel at which you hold it and we will endeavor to dispose of it for you either locally or to other counties.

Bean seed—Farmers desiring to secure bean seed through the association must send in contracts and deposits for the same at once. Just telling us you can use a bushel or two is not enough. We have no authority for purchasing until we have your contracts stating the exact amount and have your deposit. Farmers waiting until after June 3d before making contracts will undoubtedly go without seed, as we cannot get seed on such short notice in time for planting. Price per bushel will be about $11, varieties white marrows and yellow eyes.

Buckwheat seed—Nearly all our local buckwheat seed is exhausted. Dealers are unable to secure more. Farmers desiring to have the association secure buckwheat seed must have their contracts and deposits in our hands by June 10th. We do not expect to be able to locate buckwheat seed if orders are not in before that date. Buckwheat seed will cost about $2.25 per bushel.

Potato seed—We are still securing desirable potato seed. Price is now about $3.50 per bushel.

We are able to secure bean, buckwheat and potato seed through the New York State Food Supply Commission at wholesale prices and turn it over to farmers at cost plus transportation and necessary expenses.

Sincerely yours,
Ulster County Farm Bureau Association,
W. H. HOOK,
Manager.
County Representative New York State Food Supply Com.

Waste of Oil at Woodstock.

Within the past two weeks someone has twice entered the garage of the Hotel Irvington at Woodstock and, possibly with the idea of playing a joke, opened a barrel of oil stored there, allowing the oil to flow out over the floor. The first time the oil was found wasted on the floor an investigation was made. On Sunday evening a second barrel of oil was allowed to run away and Andrew Kohl, proprietor of the hotel, has offered a reward of $10 for information leading to the conviction of the person who has twice committed this crime. Admittance was gained by breaking a glass in the garage and the faucet was opened allowing the oil to run away.

Want All to Close Stores.

Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., and Ira Britt, chairman and secretary respectively of the subcommittee on instruction of the Home Defense Committee, have issued a request that all business places in the city shall close at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning so that all may participate in the observance of Memorial Day.

COMPANY M URGED TO GET RECRUITS

Adjutant Pancoast Kidder of the Tenth Regiment, has issued a notice to all company commanders upon the importance of recruiting the companies to war strength at the earliest possible opportunity. Publicity and every other means are urged upon the captains to recruit men to bring the companies up to war strength for federal muster.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, May 28.—Ellenville organizations have long been the recipients of generous gifts from Mrs. John F. Norbury for promoting any worthy cause. Mrs. Norbury, whose husband, the late John F. Norbury, M. D., was prominent in the medical profession, has been deeply interested and impressed by the energetic zeal with which the men and women of this town have gone into Red Cross work and has evidenced her interest by the substantial gift of $150 to the Ellenville Red Cross for the purchasing of supplies for Box No. 2 of the Bureau of Military Relief. This box will contain complete equipment for nine convalescent hospital patients or sailors. The materials will be cut and made into the required garments by Red Cross workers, packed in the "Mrs. John F. Norbury Box" and presented to the Ellenville Red Cross branch.

Consul Wesley Frost, recently recalled from Queenstown to Washington, D. C., and will be given a higher post in recognition of his work, was a class mate of Superintendent Harris of the Ellenville schools and comes from Kentucky.

Miss A. Eliza Cox entertained the Musical Club at her home at Yankee Place Thursday afternoon and a very interesting program on "Patriotism" was given as prepared by Miss Cox. Readings, vocal and instrumental music by the members were enjoyed to the profit of all attending.

Mrs. Depuy and family are to move from Eaton Court to the residence of U. E. Terwilliger on Main street.

Mrs. William Litchrod has gone to spend some days with her husband who has charge of a boat on the Hudson.

Ellenville, May 28.—The following program will be given at the recital of Miss Evelyn B. Bailey at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening for the benefit of the Red Cross, under the direction of the Reformed Church Ladies' Aid Society. Miss Bailey needs no introduction to an Ellenville audience and those who are planning to attend the entertainment are sure to be pleased with the program as has been arranged.

Memorial Day will be quietly observed in Ellenville on Wednesday. Ward Post, 191, G. A. R., are to observe the day as usual. Accompanied by the Sons of Veterans, Martial Corps and Boy Scouts, meet at the Post rooms at 8 a. m. and march to Fantinekill Cemetery to decorate the graves of fallen comrades. John Powers, commander, L. F. Hall, chairman of committee. All business will be suspended in the village during the day and evening.

Nurse Mac Lellich, who directed the Red Cross work in Ellenville, Napanoch, Wawarsing and Kerhonkson, is to give a colonial ball on the evening of June 5 in the Ver Nooy mansion at Napanoch, recently purchased by Frank Seaman of Yama Farms. An entertainment will be given from 8:15 to 9:15, followed by the grand march, after which the stately minuet will be danced in the spacious colonial hall by eight people in colonial costume. This is to be followed by general dancing. A buffet luncheon will be served, all to be included in the 50 cents admission. The entire proceeds will be devoted to the purchasing of supplies for the Napanoch box. The invitations are extended to members of the Red Cross.

Miss Bradford and Miss Carolyn Clark are spending the week with Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Moser at their newly appointed home at Mt. Kisco.

Mrs. George F. Andrews has gone to visit her son, Francis D. Andrews, and family in New York.

Mrs. Edward Gardiner of Dairyland spent Sunday with H. B. Lauber and family on Center street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brady of Middletown and Miss Nell M. Hardenbergh of New York are at the Hardenbergh home on Center street.

Under a thorough course of renovating and cleaning up, the large Dewitt farm near Ellenville now opened and operated by M. B. Weasmer, is considered to be one of the very finest farms in the Rondout valley. M. B. is certainly a hustler and is to be commended for the fine work done.

The village assessors, Addison Stratton, Eugene Burhans and Milton N. Terwilliger, have given notice that they have completed the assessment roll of the village and that a copy thereof may be seen at the office of the village clerk, Charles Fischer, at Scoresby Hose rooms, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. from May 30 to June 5. On the last named day the board will meet at Firemen's Hall between the hours of 12:30 p. m. and 4:30 p. m. to review their assessment and to hear and determine and claims or complaint in relation thereto that may be brought to their notice.

The Points of Our Stars.

The stars on our flag and those on the great seal of the United States, as well as those on the seal of the president, are five pointed. The seal of the house of representatives, however, shows six pointed stars, and there are six pointed stars on the obverse of the half and quarter dollar coins, with five pointed stars on the reverse. The reverse of these coins is a copy of the great seal, with the clouds and the stars omitted. So far as can be ascertained, the six pointed star is derived from the colonial coins, which were designed in the manner of English heraldry, which sanctions that star. The stars on the flag are copied from the Washington coat of arms.—Harper's.

Don't Throw Out Skim or Sour Milk.

Clean skimmilk is a valuable food, containing all the nourishing elements of whole milk except the fat or cream. It is useful in cooking cereals, soups, sauces, cocoa, etc., and is a palatable, nourishing beverage.

Sour milk and buttermilk can be used with soda in making hot breads, or sour milk can easily be turned into cottage cheese or clabber. Sour cream is a good shortening for cakes and cookies and is useful for salad dressings and gravies for meat.—Boston Globe.

A Hero.

Betty—I shall not wed until I can marry a hero. Marie—Well, my dear, just show any man who proposes to you a schedule of your yearly expenses, and if he doesn't back out he's one.—Boston Transcript.

A refrigerator should be examined daily and kept thoroughly clean. Pour boiling washing soda through it once a week and remove all slime that adheres to the water pan.

Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle in 'The Butcher Boy'

Her Importance.

Herbert Spencer once told this story of a woman of his acquaintance: "Vain as well as vulgar minded, she professed to have a high admiration of Shakespeare and was partial to reading his plays aloud and considered that she declaimed the speeches extremely well. On one occasion, after enlarging upon her reverence for him, she ended by saying: 'Ah, I often wish that he were alive and that I had him here. How we would enjoy one another's conversation!'"

In Biblical times the strongest rope was made of strips of camel hide, as still used by some tribes of Arabs.

Rouge Shops in Japan.

Rouge and toilet powders are so extensively used by Japanese women that there are shops that deal exclusively in this stuff, and are indicated by a small red flag, signifying the color which the powder will make the cheeks. A shop with a square piece of wood on which are painted various round dots of different colors, tells the passer-by of a paint shop.

Mine Echoes Voice 16 Times.

There are many salt mines in Transylvania. The ones in Marosujvar produce, says the National Geographic Magazine, a hundred million pounds of salt a year. In the one at Tordo there is a gallery known as the Joseph gallery, where one may hear his voice echoed and re-echoed 16 times.

Sensation of Hunger.

The sensation of hunger may not be an evidence of the immediate need of food. The people of Ireland, used to voluminous rations of potatoes, complain of starvation and hunger when given greater food values, but in smaller bulk. The same is true of the bread-eating peasants of Bavaria when put on a meat diet.

Draws Zinc From Metals.

A Belgian engineer has invented a new electric process for the extraction of zinc. Raw materials to the extent of about ten thousand tons have been secured to start the new zinc works at Brammen, Norway, and ores containing from 8 to 30 per cent zinc, hitherto considered worthless, will be given special attention.

STREET GOSSIP ABOUT TOWN

"Well, I see where our government is urging people to eat corn in preference to wheat," said the friend to the street corner politician.

"And as soon as they do the price of corn will go up," replied the politician.

"That's just what I was thinking," said the friend.

"That's the way with everything," continued the politician, "for as soon as the people change from one food product to another the price is always jumped."

"What do you suppose causes it?" asked the friend.

"The law of supply and demand," explained the politician.

"I have often heard of that law," said the friend, "but what does it really mean?"

"That is easily explained," replied the politician. "for instance you have a big supply of a certain brand of tobacco on hand in your store, and you also have the same amount of another tobacco of a different brand."

"Shoot along," said the friend as the politician paused.

"Well somebody starts a story that the one brand is better than the other," continued the politician, "and everybody buys that one brand and you are soon sold out, and when you try to get another supply in you find it can't be done, for all over the country people have been doing the same thing in buying the one brand instead of the other."

"I commence to see," interrupted the friend.

"Naturally the brand wanted by the purchasing public is hard to get and the price jumped up," said the politician.

"And of course the same theory applies to other things," said the friend.

"Surely," replied the politician, "for when every one starts buying corn the supply is soon exhausted and unless it can be replenished as cheaply the price shoots up."

"How is one going to overcome the high cost of living then?" queried the friend.

"By eliminating waste," replied the politician "and by that I mean cutting out all unnecessary waste."

"As for instance," said the friend.

"Why I have been at some houses" continued the politician, "where they have taken and cut an entire loaf of bread. A lot of it is left on the plate and not eaten and gets hard and is thrown away with the garbage and that is waste pure and simple."

"That is easily overcome though," argued the friend.

"It is if people would only wake up to the fact," replied the politician, "and cut the bread just as it is eaten, and the same applies to all other articles of food."

"I heard you say once that you were in favor of the government regulating prices" said the friend.

"And I am still in favor of it," replied the politician.

"For instance I believe that the government can prevent the hoarding up of supplies of food such as corn, by fixing a maximum price for the product when it is sold," continued the politician, "and by doing that it would do away with food speculation as there would be no reason for hoarding up food supplies when you would not be allowed to sell it at an advance in price."

"Sounds reasonable," commented the friend.

"And I believe it can be worked out too" replied the politician. "Of course I understand that if wheat and other grains are not grown in quantity enough to supply the demand that naturally prices will be high and the same applies to all food products."

"Do you think the home gardens will have a tendency to lower prices?" asked the friend.

"No I don't," replied the politician.

"How do you make that out?" asked the friend.

"For the simple reason," replied the politician, "that the government will shortly draft an army which means that many men will be taken out of the active walks of commercial life."

"But what has that to do with it?" argued the friend.

"They have to fed 'em, don't they?" queried the politician.

"Yes I understand that," replied the friend.

"And that means that a large amount of food will be needed to feed them," said the politician.

"I know that," replied the friend "And it means that there will be a scarcity in the labor market which is plain to see," commented the politician.

"I did not look at it in that light," confessed the friend.

"And that means," replied the politician, "that all of the food grown in the home gardens will aid in that amount not having to be bought in the markets and which can be devoted to the purpose of help feeding the army to be raised."

"I guess you are right at that," commented the friend.

A LESSON IN PATRIOTISM.

Written on Stone Slabs Over Graves of Revolutionary Soldiers.

Kingston, N. Y., May 26, 1917.
Editor Freeman:

It will soon be Decoration Day, the graves of the heroes known will be strewn with flowers and their virtues extolled by those, who speak on that occasion.

In Kingston, rich with historic happenings it has been the custom to include other than the Civil War veterans, the revolutionary patriots whose bones many of them are interred almost in our very midst, the First Dutch Church yard being the resting place of so many of the band of illustrious soldiers, who bore the heat and cold of a long seven years' war and partook of the hardships all endured without once flinching in their loyalty and devotion to the [illegible] and the lichen covered marble teach a lesson of patriotism to all. From General Clinton to the humblest private we should pay tribute to their valor, their lion hearted courage, their unfaltering zeal. In those days, though the weapons of war were not so deadly, nevertheless, the hardships of the wilderness, the poorly clad and slimly fed men, were brought face to face with the stern realities in as strong a manner as today.

It ought to stir the blood of every person as he reads those names. There they are, the Bruyns, the Hasbroucks the Terpennings, the Clintons, the Tappens, the Van Burens and Wynkoops and so on along and including the flower of the youth and manhood of Kingston one hundred and forty-three years ago.

It is an inspiration to read these old grave stones. Here is Colonel so and so—there Captain so and so, and here a private and it is meet and proper they should be remembered. These men helped to make it possible to have a country, helped to plant the Stars and Stripes as an emblem to be feared and respected, they made our country, and sleeping peacefully under the trees with the green grass above them, in our very midst, as I have stated—let us honor them, let us pay homage to their memory keeping it forever precious and bright. They died that we might have a country, let us show that we are worthy of the heritage, and that the flowers strewn by loving hands are only a renewed testy of courage and devotion to the liberties they fought to secure.

I am told the graves of eighty-two revolutionary soldiers are within this church yard. May the patriots of that church accept the trust to the end of time and keep them sacred as a loving and enduring monument to these patriotic names.

SAVORY DISHES.

Mayonnaise dressing may be varied by adding different chopped vegetables, stirring them into the dressing before adding the whipped cream. A fourth of a cupful of pimentos washed and put through a sieve with a wooden spoon; add to a cupful of mayonnaise dressing and serve it with fish.

Louis Salad.—Cut canned or fresh pineapple in strips an inch long and a fourth of an inch wide and thick; cut two apples in the same manner and squeeze over them the juice of half a lemon. Cut heart stalks of celery in the same way and have an equal quantity of each ingredient. Mix with mayonnaise and serve in heart leaves of lettuce.

Onions Stuffed With Rice.—Parboil the onions, rinse in cold water and remove the centers. Fill with rice that has been cooked tender in broth or milk and water; season with salt, curry powder and tomato catchup. Cover with a buttered paper, add broth to the dish and let the onions cook until tender. Use the liquid in the dish to make a sauce to serve with the onions.

Chocolate Pie.—Scald two cupfuls of milk, mix together a half cupful of sugar and a fourth of a cupful of corn starch and a pinch of salt; stir into the hot milk, cook 15 minutes, then add two squares of melted chocolate; beat the yolks of two eggs, add a fourth of a cupful of sugar to them, and turn into the mixture. Fill a baked shell with the chocolate mixture and cover with a meringue made of the whites of the eggs, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a half-teaspoonful of vanilla. Set in the oven until it has browned to a pale amber shade.

Cheese sauce prepared by making a white sauce, using two tablespoonfuls of butter and two of flour; cook together, then add a cupful of rich milk, and when smooth and free from lumps, add a half-cupful of grated cheese. Serve this with poached eggs, after seasoning well.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 28, 1917.

Self-interest as well as patriotism urges even the man of small means to buy one or two or half a dozen $50 Liberty Loan bonds. The bonds and the method of sale appeal alike to a patriotic desire to serve and to business sense of a good investment. The interest is fair and the bond is a first mortgage upon the republic, being free beside from income or other taxation. Any person able to raise $50 or $100 within the required time can purchase even on the installment plan through any bank or trust company without paying a cent of commissions, for everybody is giving service free in order to help Uncle Sam. If millions do this, a vast sum will be raised by the masses of the people themselves; and the bulk of the loan ought to come from the masses of the people, for if the matter is left to the rich, who are buying enormously, they will have larger investments free from taxation than is desirable. The Liberty Loan is well named, for its object is to enable our country to protect its rights and help save the world's democracies from the aggressions of a ruthless military autocracy.

A great deal has been accomplished since war was declared against Germany although in our demand for action at Washington, many of us fail to recognize that fact. In view of the magnitude of the problems confronting Congress, all calling for prompt solution, some of the things that have actually been done make a record that is surprising. For example: The adoption of selective conscription as a military policy, a policy Great Britain hesitated over for two years; the passage of the $7,000,000,000 bill providing for our war expenses and loans to our allies; vastly important war conferences with the British, French and Italian commissions at Washington; dispatch of a flotilla of destroyers to Europe and their participation in the war on Teutonic submarines; decision and preparations to send a force of regulars under General Pershing to France; decision to ask Congressional authority for food control in this country and the choice of the most experienced man in the world to direct in this vital matter; perfected plans for ship construction on a vast scale; co-ordination of the industrial forces of the country; railroads brought under Federal control. Other important steps have been taken or are under discussion, and, in addition, we may be sure that much has been done and is being done, concerning which, for military reasons, the country can not yet be informed.

Congress is a deliberative body and, as a consequence, needs time for the discussion of legislation lest action be taken which may be repented of later. It seemed a snail's pace that was adopted toward the enactment of the selective conscription bill yet now that that measure is a law some defects are already cause for comment at Washington and elsewhere. One of these would seem to lie in the fact that, while the war is being estimated to last from two years to five years, no provision was made for the registration of young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one years on Registration Day, June 5. The names of all men who have attained their 21st birthday and who are not yet 31 will be taken. When the draft comes from time to time in the year following, men who reach their 31st birthday in the interim would seem to be exempted under the law while no method is available to reach the young man arriving at his majority within the same period. Another registration may follow but it would seem to us that the first registration could have been made to extend down to boys of 16, so that successive drafts, if necessary in the years to come, would be made without the confusion and effort incident to registration.

West Virginia legislators have just incubated a new law requiring every able-bodied citizen of that State between 16 and 60 to work at least 36 hours a week. Was this timed at the ball players, the summer boarders, the idle rich, or the three classes named and more? Presumably "work" is not restricted to manual employments, for the activities of lawmakers would naturally be recognized. If this extraordinary invasion of personal rights should be upheld by the courts, West Virginia joy-riders will be prompt to seek pastures new.

Two ladies went into a studio to purchase a picture for a friend, reports Quidam. "Now this picture would match the furniture is her living room, and it is about the right size, don't you think?" asked the tall one. "Be better if it had more gilt on it," replied the short one. Then the tall one spied some photographic water colors. "Oh, here's a dandy picture!" said she, pointing to an autumn landscape.

"It is a beaut, aint' it?" remarked the short one. "What is it called.

The tall one pointed to the name in the corner, and answered "Wallace Nutting."

How He Caught Cold.

A young man went to Col. McQuigg last Friday and expressed a desire to enlist in the engineers. He was coughing and sneezing considerably as he edged into the room and thus attracted attention to himself.

"When did you decide to enlist?" asked Col. McQuigg.

"Just this morning."

"You have a bad cold. Have you had it long?"

"No, sir. I caught it just this morning."

"Just this morning?"

"Yes, sir. I caught the cold at the instant that I decided to enlist."

"How was that?"

"Well, it was this way. I was taking a bath. And just as I rose from the tub the Dorothea crew marched down the street with the military band at their head. The cold chills ran up and down my back! I decided to offer myself to my country, but the chills gave me this cold."

After due examination the recruit was accepted.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Unique Presentation.

The men of the fire department of a western town decided to present to their chief a fine axe. Elaborate preparations were made for the presentation in a ceremonial manner, and there was to be a presentation speech. The eloquent adddress framed cost the speaker many hours of mental toil.

The hall was flag-drapped when the big day came. On the platform sat a lot of firemen in full regalia. In the seats sat the prominent citizens of the town with their families. After a prayer by a minister, a piano selection, etc., came the presentation address.

The spokesman opened his mouth, but words came not. He looked at the chief, at the floor, at the ceiling, then made a wide gesture, gave a gulp, and said:

"Here's your axe."

The chief, who had arisen, gave him one look of dumb consternation, and rejoined:

"Gosh! Is that the axe?"—New York Times.

WAR is always a tragedy; we think of that side of it first, usually. But long after its tragic elements have been softened by time, its heroisms are a flaming memory.

This is as it should be; for the tragedy is a matter of events and of time; but heroism is a spiritual and eternal force.

The nation still celebrates Memorial Day, paying our tribute to heroism; there will never come a time, we hope, when such a day, and such homage, will be discontinued.

This has nothing to do with the buying and selling of clothing; which is one reason why we want to say it just now

CAN'T TREAT MAN IN KHAKI.

No Liquor Can Be Sold or Given Soldier in Uniform.

H. Snowden Marshall, United States attorney for the southern New York district, in which Kingston as well as New York city are located, decided Saturday that no hotel or cabaret owner or saloon keeper will be permitted to evade the drink clause of the conscription law by hiding behind the phraseology of "selling" rather than "serving" liquor. Mr. Marshall's outright stand on the question of selling and serving liquor to men in uniform came after he had talked over the telephone with Thomas W. Gregory, attorney general, in Washington. Mr. Marshall said that for the purpose of the law "selling" and "serving" were synonymous and that until this rule is reversed by some court of competent jurisdiction the spirit of the law would be rigidly enforced.

Mr. Marshall said: "If an adult were to take into a saloon a child and buy it any liquor he would be violating the law. The same applies to a man who would buy a drink for a uniformed man, when the law says that no uniformed man shall be sold a drink. The intent of the law, until it is overruled by a higher court, must be followed. The fact that a soldier does not pay for the drink does not alter the case. It will make no difference whether the uniformed man is in a saloon or in a lobster palace, the violation of the law is a misdemeanor and my office will prosecute any subterfuge."

From the looks of the fruit trees there will be an abundant fruit crop this year. There was a slight frost here on Thursday morning last and another was looked for on the 27th, there being a heavy fog on the 27th of February, which according to the old saying, "Fog in February, frost on that date in May," but proved untrue this year. As it is, it seems more like March than May at this writing.

Setting Tomato Plants.

In buying tomato plants, try and secure plants that have large root systems and strong stocky tops in preference to the merely tall plant. The diameter of the stem is the measure of the plant. Before being transplanted to the garden, the plants should be well hardened-off so that they will not be making a rapid sappy growth when transferred to the open. Hardening-off is accomplished by taking the plants out from under glass and withholding all but the most necessary amount of water from them for a week or two previous to their being transplanted.

In removing plants from the cold frame or flat, first give the soil a thorough watering so that it will cling to the roots of the plant. Then remove the plant, taking care to remove with it, and have adhering to its roots, as much soil as is possible.

Make a generously large hole in the soil where the plant is to be placed. Put the plant in about an inch deeper than it was while growing under glass. Pour a cup of water into the hole about the roots of the plant. Then fill in with well fined soil, firming it about the plant. Sprinkle an inch of loose fine soil on the surface to act as a mulch.

In the home garden, tomatoes should be pruned to a single stem and trained on stakes. When grown in this way they may be spaced 2½ ft. apart in the row with the rows 3 ft. apart. On good soil, if permitted to sprawl, instead of being on stakes, they will require about 5 ft. of room in the row with the rows 5 ft. apart. Drive a 5 ft. stake into the soil alongside of each plant and as the plant grows, tie it to the stake, taking care not to choke the plant by tying it too tight.

Tomatoes are pruned to a single stem by the simple process of picking the buds out from the axles of the leaves. Buds are borne in the axles of the leaves. Branches develop from buds. Therefore, if we keep the buds picked out of the axles of the leaves, the plant will have but a single stem.

Vines tied to stakes have not the support of the ground and the fruit may need tying up to prevent it tearing off. Use a piece of soft twine, looping it about the spur containing the fruit and over one of the leaves so that the string will not slip down the plant.

RED CROSS MAKES SPLENDID SHOWING

Kingston and Ulster County Branches Complete Hundreds of Articles for Hospital Uses—Many Business Men Sending Aid—Elks Donate $25.

A very inspiring and interesting meeting of all the chairmen of the various Ulster County Auxiliaries of the Red Cross was held Saturday afternoon in supreme court chambers. The meeting was opened by the chairman of the chapter, Judge G. D. B. Hasbrouck, who later turned the meeting which was of technical interest to the women, to Mrs. Fessenden, who presided to the close. Every one of the ten auxiliaries throughout the county, at Ellenville, High Falls, Highland, Milton, Marlborough, New Paltz, Rosendale, Rochester, Saugerties and Woodstock, was represented at the meeting and in addition to reports given, there was much beneficial discussion of the work, and an esprit de corps created that will go far to make exceedingly efficient the work of the Red Cross throughout the entire chapter. The reports of the separate auxiliaries will appear in a subsequent issue of the Freeman, while the following summary of accomplished work throughout the city and county will give a fair idea of the immense amount of most excellent work accomplished by the women of the community within the past seven weeks.

This report was prepared by Mrs. Frederick Slauson, chairman of the County Supplies Committee:

Good Work on Containers.

As the logical complement to this report is one just received from William C. Shafer, chairman of the Containers Committee. Mr. Shafer reports that large boxes have been contributed by the G. A. Hart Company, the L. B. Van Wagenen Company, and M. H. Herzog. Through the generosity of Charles Gray, these boxes were taken to the high school, for remodelling according to specifications, and were again taken from the high school to the chapter house when completed, for the filling for shipment. L. S. Winne Company generously donated nails, screws and hinges for the making of the boxes, and loaned special tools for the work which has been admirably done by the boys in the Manual Training Department of the high school, under the supervision of Mr. Service, joint chairman of the committee with Mr. Shafer.

Mr. Shafer reports that 15 of the large boxes are now ready for shipment to the Bush Terminal, for immediate forwarding to France. There is still on hand only sufficient lumber (from old boxes) for the making of eight or ten more boxes, and any further donations of boxes will be highly appreciated by Mr. Shafer and Mr. Service and the Red Cross.

Donations and Members.

The following are the latest contributions and memberships received:

Report on National Body.

There will be an important meeting of the executive committee of the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross, held in the supreme court chambers, Tuesday evening at eight o'clock, at which time Mrs. Reed, who acted as delegate at the recent National Red Cross War Council in Washington, will give her report of the meeting and the special detailed instructions regarding the campaign for Red Cross week. Every chairman of every committee is asked to be present.

FARM BUREAU ASKS ORDERS FOR SEED

Beans, Buckwheat and Potatoes are Scarce but Prompt Orders will be Filled—Surplus of Seed Corn for Sale.

Manager Hook of the Ulster County Farm Bureau writes The Freeman that there is a great need for the planting of corn, beans and buckwheat. "Our census of Ulster county," he says, "shows that we haven't locally enough of buckwheat or bean seed to supply our demands nor are our dealers able to secure this seed. Through our Farm Bureau and our New York State Food Supply Commission we are able to secure some seed to supply the wants of the farmers. The farmer is prone to wait until the last moment before he attempts to secure seeds. Our association does not want to order seed ahead for two reasons, first, because it is not in the seed business and second, it doesn't wish to bring seeds into the county more than are needed and thus deprive some of our other counties from having seed.

"To assist us in reaching all farmers in the county and providing them with the fundamental seed necessary to produce food for the world will you kindly insert the enclosed letter of notification on corn, beans, buckwheat and potato seed:"

May 26, 1917

Corn, Bean, Buckwheat and Potato Seed.

Farmers of Ulster county:

Three of the most necessary, available, and reliable crops for food production this year are: Corn, beans and buckwheat.

Corn and its products can be substituted for wheat both as human and animal food; beans can be substituted for meat that is costly and found to be scarce; buckwheat is also a substitute for wheat and its [illegible] and will make to some extent meat products

Corn seed—Our emergency census shows that our county has enough corn to supply its wants and a little to spare. Other counties have not. If you have well matured local grown corn for sale write us, giving your names, address, 'phone number, amount of corn and price per bushel at which you hold it and we will endeavor to dispose of it for you either locally or to other counties.

Bean seed—Farmers desiring to secure bean seed through the association must send in contracts and deposits for the same at once. Just telling us you can use a bushel or two is not enough. We have no authority for purchasing until we have your contracts stating the exact amount and have your deposit. Farmers waiting until after June 3d before making contracts will undoubtedly go without seed, as we cannot get seed on such short notice in time for planting. Price per bushel will be about $11, varieties white marrows and yellow eyes.

Buckwheat seed—Nearly all our local buckwheat seed is exhausted. Dealers are unable to secure more. Farmers desiring to have the association secure buckwheat seed must have their contracts and deposits in our hands by June 10th. We do not expect to be able to locate buckwheat seed if orders are not in before that date. Buckwheat seed will cost about $2.25 per bushel.

Potato seed—We are still securing desirable potato seed. Price is now about $3.50 per bushel.

We are able to secure bean, buckwheat and potato seed through the New York State Food Supply Commission at wholesale prices and turn it over to farmers at cost plus transportation and necessary expenses.

Sincerely yours,

Ulster County Farm Bureau Association,

W. H. HOOK,
Manager.

County Representative New York State Food Supply Com.

Waste of Oil at Woodstock.

Within the past two weeks someone has twice entered the garage of the Hotel Irvington at Woodstock and, possibly with the idea of playing a joke, opened a barrel of oil stored there, allowing the oil to flow out over the floor. The first time the oil was found wasted on the floor an investigation was made. On Sunday evening a second barrel of oil was allowed to run away and Andrew Kohl, proprietor of the hotel, has offered a reward of $10 for information leading to the conviction of the person who has twice committed this crime. Admittance was gained by breaking a glass in the garage and the faucet was opened allowing the oil to run away.

Want All to Close Stores.

Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., and Ira Britt, chairman and secretary respectively of the subcommittee on instruction of the Home Defense Committee, have issued a request that all business places in the city shall close at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning so that all may participate in the observance of Memorial Day.

COMPANY M URGED TO GET RECRUITS

Adjutant Pancoast Kidder of the Tenth Regiment, has issued a notice to all company commanders upon the importance of recruiting the companies to war strength at the earliest possible opportunity. Publicity and every other means are urged upon the captains to recruit men to bring the companies up to war strength for federal muster.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, May 28.—Ellenville organizations have long been the recipients of generous gifts from Mrs. John F. Norbury for promoting any worthy cause. Mrs. Norbury, whose husband, the late John F. Norbury, M. D., was prominent in the medical profession, has been deeply interested and impressed by the energetic zeal with which the men and women of this town have gone into Red Cross work and has evidenced her interest by the substantial gift of $150 to the Ellenville Red Cross for the purchasing of supplies for Box No. 2 of the Bureau of Military Relief. This box will contain complete equipment for nine convalescent hospital patients or sailors. The materials will be cut and made into the required garments by Red Cross workers, packed in the "Mrs. John F. Norbury Box" and presented to the Ellenville Red Cross branch.

Consul Wesley Frost, recently recalled from Queenstown to Washington, D. C., and will be given a higher post in recognition of his work, was a class mate of Superintendent Harris of the Ellenville schools and comes from Kentucky.

Miss A. Eliza Cox entertained the Musical Club at her home at Yankee Place Thursday afternoon and a very interesting program on "Patriotism" was given as prepared by Miss Cox. Readings, vocal and instrumental music by the members were enjoyed to the front of all attending.

Mrs. Depuy and family are to move from Eaton Court to the residence of U. E. Terwilliger on Main street.

Mrs. William Litchrod has gone to spend some days with her husband who has charge of a boat on the Hudson.

Ellenville, May 28.—The following program will be given at the recital of Miss Evelyn B. Bailey at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening for the benefit of the Red Cross, under the direction of the Reformed Church Ladies' Aid Society. Miss Bailey will be ably assisted by Miss Kurtz as the reader of the entertainment:

Miss Bailey needs no introduction to an Ellenville audience and those who are planning to attend the entertainment are sure to be pleased with the program as has been arranged.

Memorial Day will be quietly observed in Ellenville on Wednesday. Ward Post, 191, G. A. R., are to observe the day as usual. Accompanied by the Sons of Veterans, Martial Cums and Boy Scouts, meet at the Post rooms at 8 a. m. and march to Fantinekill Cemetery to decorate the graves of fallen comrades. John Powers, commander, L. F. Hall, chairman of committee. All business will be suspended in the village during the day and evening.

Nurse Mae Leilich, who directed the Red Cross work in Ellenville, Napanoch, Wawarsing and Kerhonkson, is to give a colonial ball on the evening of June 5 in the Ver Nooy mansion at Napanoch, recently purchased by Frank Seaman of Yama Farms. An entertainment will be given from 8:15 to 9:15, followed by the grand march, after which the stately minuet will be danced in the spacious colonial hall by eight people in colonial costume. This is to be followed by general dancing. A buffet luncheon will be served, all to be included in the 50 cents admission. The entire proceeds will be devoted to the purchasing of supplies for the Napanoch box. The invitations are extended to members of the Red Cross.

Miss Bradford and Miss Carolyn Clark are spending the week with Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Moser at their newly appointed home at Mt. Kisco.

Mrs. George F. Andrews has gone to visit her son, Francis D. Andrews, and family in New York.

Mrs. Edward Gardiner of Dairyland spent Sunday with H. B. Lauber and family on Center street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brady of Middletown and Miss Nell M. Hardenbergh of New York are at the Hardenbergh home on Center street.

Under a thorough course of renovating and cleaning up, the large Dewitt farm near Ellenville now opened and operated by M. B. Weasmer, is considered to be one of the very finest farms in the Rondout valley. M. B. is certainly a hustler and is to be commended for the fine work done.

The village assessors, Addison Stratton, Eugene Burhans and Milton N. Terwilliger, have given notice that they have completed the assessment roll of the village and that a copy thereof may be seen at the office of the village clerk, Charles Fischer, at Scoresby Hose rooms, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. from May 30 to June 5. On the last named day the board will meet at Firemen's Hall between the hours of 12:30 p. m. and 4:30 p. m. to review their assessment and to hear and determine and claims or complaint in relation thereto that may be brought to their notice.

The Points of Our Stars.

The stars on our flag and those on the great seal of the United States, as well as those on the seal of the president, are five pointed. The seal of the house of representatives, however, shows six pointed stars, and there are six pointed stars on the obverse of the half and quarter dollar coins, with five pointed stars on the reverse. The reverse of these coins is a copy of the great seal, with the clouds and the stars omitted. So far as can be ascertained, the six pointed star is derived from the colonial coins, which were designed in the manner of English heraldry, which sanctions that star. The stars on the flag are copied from the Washington coat of arms.—Harper's.

Don't Throw Out Skim or Sour Milk.

Clean skimmilk is a valuable food, containing all the nourishing elements of whole milk except the fat or cream. It is useful in cooking cereals, soups, sauces, cocoa, etc., and is a palatable, nourishing beverage.

Sour milk and buttermilk can be used with soda in making hot breads, or sour milk can easily be turned into cottage cheese or clabber. Sour cream is a good shortening for cakes and cookies and is useful for salad dressings and gravies for meat.—Boston Globe.

A Hero.

Betty—I shall not wed until I can marry a hero. Marie—Well, my dear, just show any man who proposes to you a schedule of your yearly expenses, and if he doesn't back out he's one.—Boston Transcript.

A refrigerator should be examined daily and kept thoroughly clean. Pour boiling washing soda through it once a week and remove all slime that adheres to the water pan.

Her Importance.

Herbert Spencer once told this story of a woman of his acquaintance: "Vain as well as vulgar minded, she professed to have a high admiration of Shakespeare and was partial to reading his plays aloud and considered that she declaimed the speeches extremely well. On one occasion, after enlarging upon her reverence for him, she ended by saying: 'Ah, I often wish that he were alive and that I had him here. How we would enjoy one another's conversation!'"

Rouge Shops in Japan.

Rouge and toilet powders are so extensively used by Japanese women that there are shops that deal exclusively in this stuff, and are indicated by a small red flag, signifying the color which the powder will make the cheeks. A shop with a square piece of wood on which are painted various round dots of different colors, tells the passer-by of a paint shop.

Mine Echoes Voice 16 Times.

There are many salt mines in Transylvania. The ones in Marosujvar produce, says the National Geographic Magazine, a hundred million pounds of salt a year. In the one at Tordo there is a gallery known as the Joseph gallery, where one may hear his voice echoed and re-echoed 16 times.

Sensation of Hunger.

The sensation of hunger may not be an evidence of the immediate need of food. The people of Ireland, used to voluminous rations of potatoes, complain of starvation and hunger when given greater food values, but in smaller bulk. The same is true of the bread-eating peasants of Bavaria when put on a meat diet.

Draws Zinc From Metals.

A Belgian engineer has invented a new electric process for the extraction of zinc. Raw materials to the extent of about ten thousand tons have been secured to start the new zinc works at Brummen, Norway, and ores containing from 8 to 30 per cent zinc, hitherto considered worthless, will be given special attention.

A Saugerties Genius.

Charles Dickhaut of Saugerties has just completed a car of his own design and making and on Saturday afternoon while his car was standing on Wall street a large crowd assembled and admired its lines. The body is built upon a Locomobile chassis and was entirely designed and built by Mr. Dickhaut. The body work is so out of the ordinary and unique that the car attracts a great deal of attention where ever seen. It is of torpedo design, trimmed with black walnut throughout and the workmanship is of the finest. Many a day night were spent by the designer in perfecting the lines and in the final construction work and his many friends are looking forward to the future when Mr. Dickhaut's ability aling this line will be available to car owners. The car is without a doubt one of the finest and classiest looking cars in Ulster County.

Memorial Sunday at Alligerville.

Sunday afternoon Memorial services were held at Alligerville. As the church was being repaired, the services were held in Pythian Hall. Roundout Valley Lodge, K. of P., were present in a body and notwithstanding the inclement weather the hall was filled. After appropriate recitations and the reading of the roster, Mayor Canfield gave a patriotic and fraternal address. All present voted it one of the most successful memorial services ever held there.

SUFFRAGE LEADERS GATHER.

County Organization Has "Suff" Colors for Distribution.

A large number of suffrage leaders attended the executive meeting of the Ulster County Woman Suffrage Party, which was held on Saturday in the Wiltwyck Inn. Mrs. Gordon Norrie of Staatsburg, chairman of the 10th Campaign District, presided over the meeting. Plans for carrying on the suffrage war service in the County were discussed and arrangements made for the Ulster County Suffrage Convention which will take place the latter part of June.

It is requested that every woman in Kingston who is a suffragist show the suffrage colors on Decoration Day and badges may be obtained for that purpose, free of cost, at the suffrage desk in the Red Cross Headquarters, 240 Fair Street.

Senator Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph, is one of the heads of the Italian War Mission now in Washington. This photograph of Senator Marconi was made as he left the state department at Washington after a vist to Secretary of State Lansing.

Three Classes of Soap.

While there are many kinds of soaps, it is said that those commonly used may be divided into three classes. The first class comprises fine white soaps and scented soaps, the second class, the coarse household soaps, and the third class the soft soaps.

KINGSTON'S SHARE IS $793,000

Based on the aggregate capital, surplus, undivided profits, and deposits (less deposits of other banks) of the bank in this city, the share of Kingston in the Liberty Loan amount to $793,000, according to figures prepared by the Liberty Loan Committee.

The committee feels that based on the relative subscriptions in the placing of other large issues, the Second Federal Reserve District must subscribe to a materially larger proportion of the whole issue than would be indicated by a prorating among the Federal Reserve Districts according to bank resources. In order to make the issue the success which the committee expects, it will be necessary that the Second Federal Reserve District should subscribe a minimum of a billion dollars to the loan.

It is urged that the local organization should aid to secure subscriptions of $795,000 as a minimum.

Memorial Services Held.

Memorial services were held at the Clove Reformed Church at High Falls Sunday morning. All the churches of the place joined in a union meeting and there was a large attendance. The Rev. G. C. Dangremond had charge of the services. Leroy Krom read the roster of the living and the dead of those who had served in the civil war from that vicinity with the burial places of the latter. There were several appropriate recitations by the children and singing of patriotic songs. Mayor Canfield delivered a patriotic address and a standing vote of thanks was given him for his stirring remarks. Members of Company C, Tenth Regiment, from Albany were in attendance, and the bugler of the company gave the call in opening the services and the recall in closing.

Tagore on American Women.

Women who want something very special and violent in their surroundings to keep their interests active prove their poverty of life. Apparently numbers of women as well as men in this country condemn the things that are commonplace. They are always hankering after something which is out of the common, straining their powers to produce a spurious kind of originality that merely surprises, though it may not satisfy. But such efforts are not a real sign of vitality. On the contrary, I think that they have been a cause of much of the unhealthiness in your society.—Rabindranath Tagore in Ladies' Home Journal.

A Mighty Man.

Topham, the prince of English strong men, had knots of muscles where the armpits are in the ordinary man. He could take a bar of iron one and one-half inches in diameter and five feet long, place the middle of it over the back of his neck and then force the ends forward until they met before his face. On one occasion he called upon a village blacksmith and made of him an everlasting enemy by picking up a number of horseshoes and snapping them in two as easily as if they had been pine sticks.

LAWS OF NEW YORK—By Authority.

CHAP. 72.

AN ACT to amend the tax law, in relation to the determination and apportionment of mortgage taxes.

Became a law March 20, 1917, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section two hundred and sixty of chapter sixty-two of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to taxation, constituting chapter sixty of the consolidated laws," as added by chapter three hundred and thirty-five of the laws of nineteen hundred and sixteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 260. Determination and apportionment by the state tax commission. When the real property covered by a mortgage is situated in more than one tax district, the state tax commission shall deduct from the relative assessments of such real property in the respective tax districts covered by such mortgage any prior existing mortgage liens and shall then apportion the tax paid on such mortgage between the respective tax districts upon the basis of the relative assessments of such real property as the same appear on the last assessment-rolls less the deduction, if any. If, however, the whole or any part of the property covered by such a mortgage is not assessed upon the last assessment-roll or rolls of the tax district or districts in which it is situated, or is so assessed, as a part of a larger tract, that the assessed value cannot be determined, or if improvements have been made to such an extent as materially to change the value of the property so assessed, the tax commission may require the local assessors in the respective tax districts, or the mortgagor, or mortgagee, to furnish sworn appraisals of the property in each tax district, and upon such appraisals shall determine the apportionment. If such mortgage covers real property in two or more counties, the tax commission shall determine the proportion of the tax which shall be paid by the recording officer who has received the same to the recording officers of the other counties in which are situated the tax districts entitled to share therein. When any recording officer shall pay any portion of a tax to the recording officer of another county, he shall forward with such tax a description sufficient to identify the mortgage on which the tax has been paid, and the recording officer receiving such tax shall note on the margin of the record of such mortgage the fact of such payment, attested by his signature. The tax commission shall make an order of determination and apportionment in respect to each such mortgage and file a certified copy thereof with the recording officer of each county in which a part of the mortgaged real property is situated.

When the real property covered by a mortgage is partly within the state and partly without the state it shall be the duty of the tax commission to determine what portion of the mortgage or of advancements thereon shall be taxable under this article. Such determination shall be made in the following manner: First: Determine the respective values of the property within and without the state, and deduct therefrom the amount of any prior existing mortgage liens, excepting such liens as are to be replaced by the advancements under consideration. Second: Find the ratio that the net value of the mortgaged property within the state bears to the net value of the entire mortgaged property. Third: Make the determination of the portion of the mortgage or of the advancements thereon which shall be taxable under this article by applying the ratio so found. If a mortgage covering property partly within and partly without the state is presented for record before such determination has been made, or at the time when an advance is made on a corporate trust mortgage or on a prior advance mortgage, there may be presented to the recording officer a statement in duplicate verified by the mortgagor or an officer or duly authorized agent of the mortgagor, in which shall be specified the net value of the property within the state and the net value of the property without the state covered by such mortgage. One of such statements shall be filed by the recording officer and the other shall be forthwith transmitted by him to the state tax commission. The tax payable under this article before the determination by the tax commission shall be computed upon such portion of the principal indebtedness secured by the mortgage, or of the sum advanced thereon, as the net value of the mortgaged property within the state bears to the net value of the entire mortgaged property as set forth in such statement. The tax commission shall on receipt of the statement from the recording officer and on not less than ten days' notice served personally or by mail upon the mortgagor, the mortgagee and the state comptroller, proceed to make the required determination. In determining the separate values of the property within and without the state the tax commission shall consider only the tangible property, real and personal, except that leases of real property shall be deemed tangible property. For the purpose of determining such value the tax commission may require the mortgagor or mortgagee to furnish by affidavit or verified report such information or data as it may deem necessary, and may require and take the testimony of the mortgagor, mortgagee or any other person. A certified copy of the order of determination and apportionment shall be delivered personally or by mail to the mortgagor, the mortgagee and the state comptroller, and any tax under such determination which has not been paid shall be paid within ten days after service of such certified copy; if, however, the tax paid at the time of filing the statement hereinbefore specified with the recording officer is in excess of the tax determined to be payable, the certificate of determination and apportionment shall direct the recording officer to refund to the person paying such tax the amount of such excess; provided that no refund shall be made of any taxes paid pursuant to a previous determination.

The tax commission shall adopt rules to govern the procedure and the manner of taking evidence in all the matters provided for by this section and may require verified statements to be furnished either by boards of assessors, recording officers or other persons having knowledge in relation to such matters. Failure on the part of any person or officer to furnish a statement or other data when required so to do pursuant to the provisions of this section shall render such person or officer liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars, to be recovered by the attorney-general in an action brought in the name of the people of the state of New York.

In making determination and apportionment under this section the tax commission shall consider all advancements made upon a mortgage after July first, nineteen hundred and six, in the aggregate, which aggregate shall be obtained by adding all advancements made after July first, nineteen hundred and six, to the last advancement and the total shall be treated as a whole mortgage, considering the status of the property as of the time the last advancement is made. In all cases under this section in which it shall appear that the prior incumbrances exceed the assessed or appraised value of the property in one or more tax districts the commission may, by a process of equalization or otherwise, establish a basis of apportionment that will be equitable and fair.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, ss:

I have compared the preceding with the original law on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original law.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

POLISH AID AND LOVE OF LIBERTY

Flag-Raising at Immaculate Conception Church School Occasion for Tributes Paid to Pulaski and Kosciusko by Eloquent Speakers.

The blessing and raising of the school flag was the occasion of a large gathering at the Immaculate Conception Church Sunday afternoon when an impressive program was carried out, a special blessing being invoked upon the flag by the Rev. Father Francis Lesniewski, rector of the church. A patriotic address was delivered by the Rev. Father F. P. J. Cummings of East Kingston and N. D. J. Murphy also spoke, paying a high tribute to the patriotic and religious fervor of the Polish people and citing the stirring careers of Pulaski and Kosciusko as examples of the love of liberty that dwells in the hearts of Poles.

Mr. Murphy expressed his admiration for the staunch religious convictions of the Polish people and urged them to stick to their church and to their pastor as well as to their country. Of the great Pulaski, whose participation in the American Revolution did so much for the patriots' cause, Mr. Murphy spoke in highest praise telling of Pulaski's career at Brandywine, Germantown, Charleston, and at the siege of Savannah where he received the wound which afterward caused his death aboard the brig Wasp. The tablet to his memory unveiled at Washington in May, 1910, together with the high place that Pulaski and Kosciusko had in the admiration and affections of the American people through their espousal of the cause of liberty in the stirring days of the war for American independence.

Mr. Murphy was warmly applauded as was also the Rev. Father Cummings, who spoke in similar strain, lauding Polish devotion to freedom and religious liberty.

Truth Survives.

What is true cannot be made truer. The world may question it and attack it and "hawk at it and tear it," but it will survive. It makes no difference either how humble the source from which the truth may emanate. It is not a question of authority. If it is truth, it may come from a carpenter of Nazareth or from an attic in the Latin quarter; sooner or later all the world will accept it.—Lester F. Ward.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 28, 1917.

Self-interest as well as patriotism urges even the man of small means to buy one or two or half a dozen $50 Liberty Loan bonds. The bonds and the method of sale appeal alike to a patriotic desire to serve and to business sense of a good investment. The interest is fair and the bond is a first mortgage upon the republic, being free beside from income or other taxation. Any person able to raise $50 or $100 within the required time can purchase even on the installment plan through any bank or trust company without paying a cent of commissions, for everybody is giving service free in order to help Uncle Sam. If millions do this, a vast sum will be raised by the masses of the people themselves; and the bulk of the loan ought to come from the masses of the people, for if the matter is left to the rich, who are buying enormously, they will have larger investments free from taxation than is desirable. The Liberty Loan is well named, for its object is to enable our country to protect its rights and help save the world's democracies from the aggressions of a ruthless military autocracy.

A great deal has been accomplished since war was declared against Germany although in our demand for action at Washington, many of us fail to recognize that fact. In view of the magnitude of the problems confronting Congress, all calling for prompt solution, some of the things that have actually been done make a record that is surprising. For example: The adoption of selective conscription as a military policy, a policy Great Britain hesitated over for two years; the passage of the $7,000,000,000 bill providing for our war expenses and loans to our allies; rapid important war conferences with the British, French and Italian commissions at Washington; dispatch of a flotilla of destroyers to Europe and their participation in the war on Teutonic submarines, decision and preparations to send a force of regulars under General Pershing to France; decision to ask Congressional authority for food control in this country and the choice of the most experienced man in the world to direct in this vital matter; perfected plans for ship construction on a vast scale; co-ordination of the industrial forces of the country; railroads brought under Federal control. Other important steps have been taken or are under discussion, and, in addition, we may be sure that much has been done and is being done, concerning which, for military reasons, the country can not yet be informed.

Congress is a deliberative body and, as a consequence, needs time for the discussion of legislation lest action be taken which may be repented of later. It seemed a snail's pace that was adopted toward the enactment of the selective conscription bill yet now that that measure is a law some defects are already cause for comment at Washington and elsewhere. One of these would seem to lie in the fact that, while the war is being estimated to last from two years to five years, no provision was made for the registration of young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one years on Registration Day, June 5. The names of all men who have attained their 21st birthday and who are not yet 31 will be taken. When the draft comes from time to time in the year following, men who reach their 21st birthday in the interim would seem to be exempted under the law while no method is available to reach the young man arriving at his majority within the same period. Another registration may follow but it would seem to us that the first registration could have been made to extend down to boys of 16, so that successive drafts, if necessary in the years to come, would be made without the confusion and effort incident to registration.

West Virginia legislators have just incubated a new law requiring every able-bodied citizen of that State between 16 and 60 to work at least 36 hours a week. Was this timed at the ball players, the summer boarders, the idle rich, or the three classes named and more? Presumably "work" is not restricted to manual employments, for the activities of lawmakers would naturally be recognized. If this extraordinary invasion of personal rights should be upheld by the courts, West Virginia joy-riders will be prompt to seek pastures new.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

Knicker—"What becomes of Smith's money?" Bocker—"He pays his children to be good, his wife to forgive, the cook to stay, and labor not to strike."—Judge.

Visitor—"Have your employes had any experience in military training?" Employer—"Well, most of them have been soldiering on the job for years."—Puck.

"A man should have the courage of his convictions." "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum; "but he should be content with a display of courage. He shouldn't let a mere personal opinion make him foolhardy."—Washington Star.

Two ladies went into a studio to purchase a picture for a friend, reports Quidam. "Now this picture would match the furniture in her living room, and it is about the right size, don't you think?" asked the tall one. "Be better if it had more gilt on it," replied the short one. Then the tall one spied some photographic water colors. "Oh, here's a dandy picture!" said she, pointing to an autumn landscape.

"It is a beaut, ain't it?" remarked the short one. "What is it called.

The tall one pointed to the name in the corner, and answered 'Wallace Nutting.'"

How He Caught Cold.

A young man went to Col. McQuigg last Friday and expressed a desire to enlist in the engineers. He was coughing and sneezing considerably as he edged into the room and thus attracted attention to himself.

"When did you decide to enlist?" asked Col. McQuigg.

"Just this morning."

"You have a bad cold. Have you had it long?"

"No, sir. I caught it just this morning."

"Just this morning?"

"Yes, sir. I caught the cold at the instant that I decided to enlist."

"How was that?"

"Well, it was this way. I was taking a bath. And just as I rose from the tub the Dorothea crew marched down the street with the military band at their head. The cold chills ran up and down my back! I decided to offer myself to my country, but the chills gave me this cold."

After due examination the recruit was accepted.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Unique Presentation.

The men of the fire department of a western town decided to present to their chief a fine axe. Elaborate preparations were made for the presentation in a ceremonial manner and there was to be a presentation speech. The eloquent addresses framed cost the speaker many hours of mental toil.

The hall was flag-draped when the big day came. On the platform sat a lot of firemen in full regalia. In the seats sat the prominent citizens of the town with their families. After a prayer by a minister, a piano selection, etc., came the presentation address.

The spokesman opened his mouth, but words came not. He looked at the chief, at the floor, at the ceiling, then made a wide gesture, gave a gulp, and said:

"Here's your axe."

The chief, who had arisen, gave him one look of dumb consternation, and rejoined:

"Gosh! Is that the axe?"—New York Times.

Secret of True Industry.

MEMORIAL DAY · MCMXVII

WAR is always a tragedy; we think of that side of it first, usually. But long after its tragic elements have been softened by time, its heroisms are a flaming memory.

This is as it should be; for the tragedy is a matter of events and of time; but heroism is a spiritual and eternal force.

The nation still celebrates Memorial Day, paying our tribute to heroism; there will never come a time, we hope, when such a day, and such homage, will be discontinued.

This has nothing to do with the buying and selling of clothing; which is one reason why we want to say it just now

CAN'T TREAT MAN IN KHAKI.

No Liquor Can Be Sold or Given Soldier in Uniform.

H. Snowden Marshall, United States attorney for the southern New York district, in which Kingston as well as New York city are located, decided Saturday that no hotel or cabaret owner or saloon keeper will be permitted to evade the drink clause of the conscription law by hiding behind the phraseology of "selling" rather than "serving" liquor. Mr. Marshall's outright stand on the question of selling and serving liquor to men in uniform came after he had talked over the telephone with Thomas W. Gregory, attorney general, in Washington. Mr. Marshall said that for the purpose of the law "selling" and "serving" were synonymous and that until this rule is reversed by some court of competent jurisdiction the spirit of the law would be rigidly enforced.

Mr. Marshall said: "If an adult were to take into a saloon a child and buy it any liquor he would be violating the law. The same applies to a man who would buy a drink for a uniformed man, when the law says that no uniformed man shall be sold a drink. The intent of the law, until it is overruled by a higher court, must be followed. The fact that a soldier does not pay for the drink does not alter the case. It will make no difference whether the uniformed man is in a saloon or in a lobster palace, the violation of the law is a misdemeanor and my office will prosecute any subterfuge."

There was a slight frost here on Thursday morning last and another was looked for on the 27th, there being a heavy fog on the 27th of February, which according to the old saying, "Fog in February, frost on that date in May," but proved untrue this year. PURDY BROTHERS BEAT UP YALLER

Officer O'Neil Saturday Evening Arrested Them for Public Intoxication and Fighting on Street—Purdys Preferred Army Life to Jail.

Saturday evening Officer O'Neil arrested Byron Purdy, 23 years old, and his brother, Orville Purdy, 20 years old, for fighting Frank Mains, 40 years old, on West Union street near Broadway. They spent Saturday night and Sunday in jail and were arraigned before Recorder Lang this morning in recorder's court.

The Purdy brothers were arraigned first and told their side of the affray. Byron was dressed in his working clothes while Orville had on his Sunday best. They said they had been to the carnival and had returned home to a relative's house who was not home when they got there and they started out again when Yaller picked a fight with them. The Purdy brothers were mixed up in a chicken robbery at Woodstock and one of them was paroled by County Judge Jenkins at the time and the other served some time in jail.

They claim they were not drunk Saturday evening.

On the other hand Yaller said he was passing peacefully by on the street when they set upon him and beat him up. Yaller exhibted to the court a bump on his head and removed some of his clothin g and showed other marks where he claimed the brothers had kicked him. Yaller said he had been discharged from jail Saturday morning and had spent the day at home making a garden for his wife and had planted some garden truck. That evening he and his wife had gone to a show. He confessed that he had had a few beers but was not drunk he said.

Sergeant Hanley informed the court that the information he had received of the affair showed that Yaller had been set upon by the brothers.

Recorder Lang sentenced Yaller to five days in jail for not keeping his promise to abstain from drinking booze, and sentenced the Purdy brothers to 60 days each in the county hotel for creating a public disturbance in fighting and using indecent language on the public street.

The trio were led from the court by Sergeant Hanley and when the Purdy brothers had thought it over in police headquarters while waiting for the patrol wagon to take them to jail they sent word back to the court by Sergeant Hanley that if their sentence was remitted they would enlist in the army.

Recorder Lang sent them word that they had already enlisted in Sheriff Shultis's agricultural army and he would not remit the sentence.

It might be added that the Purdys' court record would probably bar them from being accepted in the army.

Mrs. Melissa Bollus of New York city is visiting her sister, Mrs. Althea Taylor, on Green street.

Rehearsals for Children's Day music will be held in the chapel of the Methodist Church this evening at 7:45 o'clock and Tuesday evening at the same hour.

Prayer service will be omitted in the Methodist Church Thursday evening as a temperance lecture will be given in the Reformed Church on that evening under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, by Frank E. Howard, ex-convict No. 11,221. All are invited to this service. Free will offering will be taken.

Members of Esopus Council, No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, who will assist in decorating the float for Decoration Day, will kindly assemble at the livery stable of Jonathan Van Aken on Green street Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

On the evening of Decoration Day every one of our townspeople with American feeling should turn to the Reformed Church and listen to the address of Attorney Frank W. Brooks, to be given at 8 o'clock. Mr. Brooks is a well known orator and has made an extensive study of patriotic lives, and no one should miss this opportunity to hear him. The Brotherhood of the Reformed Church will welcome you and try to entertain you in the way the spirit of the day demands. Refreshments will be on sale both before and after the address of Mr. Brooks.

DR. WU, INSTALLED AS CHINESE PREMIER, FAVORS WAR ON GERMANY.

Dr. Wu Ting Fang, former Chinese Minister to the U. S., has been appointed Premier of China and is empowered to form a new cabinet. This action will probably end the deadlock in the Chinese Parliament and result in an open declaration of war on Germany.

Dr. Wu is one of the most picturesque characters in China. He was born in Singapore in 1842. He was graduated from St. Paul's College in Hong Kong and later studied law in London. He was appointed Minister to the U. S. in 1896. He was recalled in 1902, but was reappointed in 1907 and served until 1909. In Washington he established a reputation for witty repartee and audacity in asking questions which made him the subject of daily comment.

Chloride of calcium is sometimes used to absorb moisture and keep certain photographic products dry, such as platinum paper or carbon paper; but a photographer has discovered that cardboard of the heavy kind will act as a good drier. "BEER is a beverage prepared from cereals, water, hops and yeast. It contains 5 per cent. solid matter and only 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol. Beer is not intoxicating in ordinary quantities and is one of the few foods that is free from bacteria."

PROF. CHANDLER,
of Columbia University.

What is Beer?

In starting to tell what beer really is, it would perhaps be better to tell what beer is not. Beer, on account of its small per cent. of alcohol, is no more a dangerous intoxicant than coffee, with its small per cent. of caffeine, is a dangerous drug.

There is no mystery about beer. All beers are made from an extract of cereals such as barley, malt, rice and corn. The starch of the cereals is converted during the brewing process into sugar. The liquid is boiled and hops are added to impart their agreeable bitter taste and flavor. After boiling, the liquid is cooled and fermented with yeast.

If there is anything harmful in any of these materials it is yet to be discovered. The same materials, with the exception of the hops, are used in the manufacture of bread and in many of the food products of today, and the hop plant has never been suspected of being anything but a desirable tonic herb.

The fermenting process gives beer its life and stimulating power. It is the same process that goes on in cider making, but whereas the farmer making cider leaves much to chance, the brewer absolutely controls the ultimate result of his brewing. For by boiling his extract before fermentation it is sterilized and the yeast used is a pure culture especially selected for beer brewing.

The small percentage of alcohol in beer results naturally from the process of fermentation—just as in cider—but cider usually has more alcohol than beer. Some cider makers increase the amount of alcohol by adding sugar to the must. They want alcohol to keep cider from spoiling. The brewer brews so as to have only 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol and he relies on sterilization, cleanliness and an expensive system of refrigeration to keep his beer from spoiling.

HUDSON RIVER DAY LINE

RUNNING A CABLE UP HUDSON VALLEY

A silvery serpent of pliable lead pipe is pushing its way up the Hudson valley at the rate of four or five miles a day, when the going is good, and in its method and rate of travel are to be found a most interesting exhibition of New York telephone efficiency. A Ford car, two or three of 'em in fact, a potato bug sprayer and a lot of Yankee labor-saving ideas figure in this latest move to add to the attraction of Albany, New York and Kingston as talking points over Bell toll lines. With other apparatus, the three features cited have been doing some stunts for the past week along the Saugerties road where a corps of linemen is running the big cable which is to connect the capital with the metropolis.

At this stage of operations, the poles are up 110 feet apart, and the messenger support wire is all strung, this being a seven strand iron wire with lock aerial rings spaced at intervals of about eighteen inches. Within these rings or loops, is a small thread wire which is permanently replaced by the cable and it is this replacement that the interesting operations occur.

To begin with, the cable is a lead-covered tube about three inches in diameter and it encloses 212 pairs of wires. It is known as a 212 pair toll cable and is made specially for each section. The cable weighs eight pounds to the foot and the average length of cable on each of the big spools distributed along the highway is 600 feet, so the trick of putting some two tons of cable into place in one operation is well worth watching. To put it briefly, the cable is hauled through the loops by main force, the motive power coming from a three ton White truck.

The Ford takes first place in the connecting up of a section. It spins on ahead and when the end of a section is reached, the car is stopped and the rear axle jacked up. Projecting from spoke of one rear wheel are several iron bars, making a rude but effective drum. One end of the thread wire is attached thereto and at the other end of the section the heavy winch wire is affixed to the thread. The Ford is then started on low and the winch wire is pulled through in jig time. Then the Ford packs up and goes on to the next section to repeat the operation.

Ready for the Big Pull.

With the exit of the Ford, the White truck comes on the scene and anchors. To the winch wire on this machine is attached the heavy wire to which the cable is affixed by means of a basket hitch, a woven network of wire which spreads over about three feet of the heavy cable and distributes the strain of the pull for if a hook were used it would split the lead pipe to bits such is the strain All is in readiness at this end of the line for the signal.

At the opposite end, the big drum or spool of cable has been set up on jacks and a shaft and then a lineman equipped with a potato bug sprayer filled with light oil takes his place at the point where the cable enters the first pulley. The foreman blows a whistle, the truck starts its engine and with gasoline for power and kerosene to grease the ways, the big cable slips along through the loops at a steady clip which is usually maintained without a hitch until the end is pulled through at the point where the truck is stationed. The potato bug spray is kept going all the while the heavy cable is moving for without such lubrication the friction would be considerable of an obstacle in itself. The spray took the place of a paint brush as being more economical and effective.

To pull the 600 foot section into place requires an average of three minutes from the time the whistle is blown but the bit has been done in fifteen seconds less time.

Pulls Another Before Moving.

Once the section is hauled through, the truck remains at the same point and proceeds to pull through the wire and cable from the opposite direction, the winch wire already having been pulled through a few moments before by the indefatigable Ford. The rate of progress is sometimes as high as five and six miles a day, a speed undreamed of in the days when the horse was the chief motive power.

With the second section pulled through, the truck jumps two sections uyp the road and repeats the operation, the crew in charge of the cable spools, working in between the "thread-pulling" Ford and the big truck operators. It is a marvel of efficiency only to be likened to packing house methods. At that, the Bell force goes the meat packers one better as they do not lose a single grunt or squeal. The entire job is moved by whistles, the same as men are moved in dashes from the trenches on the French front. Not an order is yelled, each unit working in silence and pushing ahead without loss of energy or time in talk.

Obstacles at Highland.

The part of the cable now being run in the vicinity of Kingston is known as the Beacon-Catskill section and it is planned to extend the line to Albany this season. Some of the obstacles encountered in the big pull over the mountain at Highland were photographed by men from the company offices. At Highland, the truck operated from the road, pulling from a spool of cable at its side, the winch wire being run up the steep incline to a pulley high up on the private right of way, one of the roughest bits of country yet covered by the Bell force in this country.

J. E. Drum, construction supervisor, is in charge of the work and with him is Frank Laird, supervising foreman. Every idea developed anywhere in the Bell organization is instantly taken advantage of by headquarters and the field forces all over the country. But for efficiency in organization, labor-saving methods and good results, the Kingston district furnishes an example that is attracting the attention of the construction heads of the entire corporation. Meanwhile, the cable is being pushed northward toward Saugerties.

Garden Pests.

Planting is only preparatory to harvesting, and if the crop is greatly reduced by insect enemies, our labor amounts to little. The common garden pests exact a heavy and usually easily avoided toll. Some of the best methods of handling this part of the garden problem are outlined below.

The black flea beetle, only about ⅛ of an inch long, active, jumping, attacks young tomatoes, potatoes, beans, cucumbers, etc., gnawing irregular areas on one side of the leaf and occasionally killing the plants. Apply a poisoned bordeaux mixture or simply arsenate of lead at the beginning of the attack, or dust with air-slaked lime. Cucumber and other vines may be protected with cloth or wire netting over each hill.

Cut worms occur in most gardens. They are dull grayish caterpillars, 1½ to 2 inches long, which shelter in the soil during the day and gnaw or cut off young plants at night. Young cabbage, tomato, or pepper plants can be protected when transplanting with strips of newspaper about 2 inches wide wrapped around the stem so that when the plants are set the paper will extend a little below the surface of the soil and an inch or so above. Other crops, if troubled by cut worms, can be protected by the use of poisoned baits, such as lettuce or fresh cloved dipped in Paris Green or lead arsenate sprays and distributed along the injured rows, preferably just before sundown.

Potato beetles are always ready for the young plants and can be controlled very well in small gardens by hand picking, using a pan partly filled with water and a little kerosene. Later look for the masses of yellowish orange eggs on the under side of the leaves and crush them. Several sprayings at approximately two-week intervals with arsenate of lead and bordeaux mixture (or the poison by itself) are better, since this not only kills bugs but protects against blight.

Squash vines are seriously injured by the black flea beetle, the striped cucumber beetle, the squash bug and the squash vine borer. The first is noticed above and the measures recommended are equally effective against the bright yellow and black-striped cucumber beetle.

The squash bug is a gray stink bug about ¾ of an inch long. It appears on the young plants, deposits clusters of bronze-colored eggs on the under side of the foliage, and its feeding results in wilting leaves. Place chips or similar shelters near the vines and each morning kill the insects resting underneath. Find and destroy the eggs.

The squash vine borer causes wilting of entire runners, due to the work of a white caterpillar in the stem. Locate the weak place by feeling, slit the infested stem, kill the borer, and then cover the wounded part with an inch or so of soil. The runner will recover in many cases.

The cabbage worm is a greenish caterpillar which develops from eggs laid by the whitish butterflies seen about cabbages. Capture the butterflies with nets and kill them. Look for small holes in the leaves and destroy the caterpillars before they cause material injury by dusting with hellebore, pyrethrum or even lime.

Onion maggots, less than ½ inch long, attack the bulbs of onions, causing wilting, and may destroy much of the crop. Badly infested plants should be pulled and destroyed; otherwise the maggots may migrate to the next plant in the row. A moderate infestation may be checked by removing as much of the soil from the base of the plants as is safe in the morning of a good day, and replacing it towards night. There should be enough drying to drive away or kill the maggots, and yet enough to injure the plants.

Arsenate of lead in a form suitable for use on plants may be obtained through most seed stores. Apply at the rate of two pounds of the paste, or one pound of the powder, to 50 gallons of water.

There is a little monogram
We see where'er we go;
It offers us protection
Against a foreign foe.
It stands for light and progress
In every foreign clime,
And its glory and its greatness
Are the themes of many a rhyme.

But few have ever really known
And few would ever guess
What our country means by marking
All her chattels with U. S.;
It may stand for United States,
Or yet for Uncle Sam;
But there's still another meaning
To this simple monogram.

We see it on our bonds and bills,
And on our postal cards;
It decorates our Capitol,
Shadowed by Stripes and Stars,
In all our barracks, posts, and forts
It plays a leading part,
And the jolly sailor loves it
And enshrines it in his heart.

Now have you guessed the message
Which these mystic letters bear?
Or recognized the untold good
They're spreading everywhere?
Echo the joyful tidings,
And let the people know
That the U. S. of our nation means

Setting Tomato Plants

In buying tomato plants try and secure plants that have large root systems and strong stocky tops in preference to the merely tall plant The diameter of the stem is the measure of the plant Before being transplanted to the garden the plants should be well hardened off so that they will not be making a rapid sappy growth when transferred to the open Hardening off is accomplished by taking the plants out from under glass and withholding all but the most necessary amount of water from them for a week or two previous to their being transplanted

In removing plants from the cold frame or flat first give the soil a thorough watering so that it will cling to the roots of the plant Then remove the plant taking care to remove with it and have adhering to its roots as much soil as possible

Make a generously large hole in the soil where the plant is to be placed Put the plant in about an inch deeper than it was while growing under glass Pour a cup of water into the hole about the roots of the plant Then fill in with refined soil firming it about the plant Sprinkle an inch of loose dry soil on the surface to act as a mulch

In the home garden tomatoe should be pruned to a single stem and trained on stakes When grown in this way the rows may be spaced 3½ ft apart in the row with the rows 3 ft apart On good soil if permitted to sprawl instead of being staked the vines will require about a ft of room in the row with the rows 3 ft apart Drive a 5 ft stake into the soil along side of each plant and as the plant grows tie it to the stake taking care not to strike the plant by tying it too tight

Tomatoes are pruned to a single stem by the simple process of pinching the buds out from the axes of the leaves Buds are borne in the axles of the leaves Branches develop from buds Therefore if we keep the buds picked out of the axles of the leaves the plant will have but a single stem

Staked tomatoes have not the support of the ground and the fruit may need tying up to prevent it tearing off Use a piece of soft cloth looping it about the plant containing the fruit and to one of the leaves so that the string will not slip down the plant

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, May 28.—Many issues which had made substantial gains in the initial trading, joined in a downward movement. The copper stocks showed a lack of support, with Utah declining from 118¼ to 114½, and Inspiration from 64¾ to 61¾. The minor industrials moved in the same way. Crucible dropped from 81 to 79. The railroad stocks were active and strong, all through the reaction of the industrials. Union Pacific advanced 2½ points to 139¾. Reading 2⅝ to 96 and Norfolk and Western 3½ to 127.

Stocks reacted in the afternoon, the trading continuing active with dealings in many stocks on a large scale, but with evidence of profit taking sales by some of the largest speculative interests. Marine preferred advanced from 82½ to 84½ and the common from 29¼ to 30½. Union Pacific dropped from 139¾ to 138¼. Third Avenue was heavy, falling from 20 to 18½.

Storm Warnings Ordered.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, May 28.—The weather bureau today ordered storm warnings displayed on the Atlantic coast from Portland ot Charleston.

Matrimonial Candidates.

Among the curious advertisements published in a paper of the Punjab, India, is one of a young man who wishes to marry. He says: "I am of handsome physique and excellent health. My family is descended from the respectable caste of the Khatris. I am twenty-one years old and wish to find a young girl between fourteen and eighteen who has good health, literary tastes and is of good parentage."

Another notice announces the engagement of a lad, eleven years old, "who knows how to speak Hindu, Gurmukhi, Urdu, Persian and English; who is still in school and does not wish to marry before he is thirteen (!), as he wishes to continue his studies."

Oven Efficiency.

Some women find a use for both their range oven and a small removable oven at the same time. When baking cookies, set the small oven on the front of the stove and use both ovens. You will be through in a short time.

When you want to cook one kind of food slowly and another rapidly, set the small oven on at the back of the stove and use it for slow heat. Keep the range oven hot. In this way you may bake custards, apples or light bread as slowly as desired and at the same time be cooking pies or biscuits in a hot oven.

Newest Hats.

Fabrics are greatly used by the milliners, and whole hats, crowns and brims are fashioned of crepe de chine, georgette, chiffon, satin, taffeta or whatever the designer happens to fancy. Georgette and crepe de chine are perhaps more used than any of the other materials, always excepting nets and laces, and a hat entirely covered with crape and showing straw only in the facing of the wide brim is sometimes untrimmed save for a drapery and knot of the crape. Other crape covered models are flower trimmed or feather trimmed.

We all know the Old Baptists are noted for their hospitality and make the best of neighbors but yet it is rather trying to drive a long distance to meeting and find the best stalls occupied for storage purposes, and it would be much appreciated by the church folks if they were cleared out. This church stands in the middle of Shokan and is one of the oldest congregations in the town of Olive and has doubled in membership in the past year.

FROM THE FRONT

Dr. Carrel's Wife Was Only a Day Behind the Germans.

FIRST AMBULANCE OVER.

An Appeal From the Trenches For the Children and Sick In Noyon After the Retreat of the Germans From the City Recently.

In her letter of appeal for clothing and food Mme. Alexis Carrel, wife of Dr. Carrel, thus describes her entrance into a city a day after it had been retaken by the British-French soldiers:

"On Sunday the news of the German retreat from Noyon reached me, and I pushed to Ribecourt, at four kilometers distance. There I found that the bridges had been blown up. Instead of lingering, I returned, as I had seen the cavalry fording the stream.

"However, on the morning of Monday, the 19th, I asked our head surgeon for an ambulance, but he refused, as he suspected my motives and did not think it necessary or sensible for me to be killed. I then went to the chauffeur and ordered the ambulance out on the road and filled it with what I found that seemed necessary and then urged the man to drive it. He answered me that we could not go unless we had the necessary permits.

"I replied that this was no time to wait for permits. In a very short time I reached the bridge which was being temporarily put up, watched the work for twenty minutes, then dashed up to this structure, and am glad to say mine was the first ambulance to cross. I joined the heavy artillery, and when shouted at by a sentinel I answered, 'Service, service,' and passed on with the artillery. We had to wait for a second bridge to be constructed and then found ourselves in Noyon, only twenty-four hours after the last Germans had moved away.

"Every woman between the ages of fourteen and thirty had been carried off by Germans nine days before the retreat began. Thus all these poor people whom we found crowded in the cellars had hideous tales to tell.

"None of the French civil population had had any meat of any kind for seventeen months. They had lived on black bread and rice. Many had died in their struggle to keep alive, and the mortality among the children had been terrible. The bodies of those who had died had been kept for five days unburied in the midst of the living.

"In the orphan asylum, in a small room, the beds were so close together that they touched, and on these beds were children who had slept without mattresses, pillows or covering since the month of December, in their clothes, unwashed, unkempt and uncared for. No words can describe their condition.

"The wounded French who were still in the hospital had not been cared for and were being slowly taken into our own hospital at Compiegne, which is twenty-three kilometers from Noyon. The men who were brought in at midnight had been reduced to the last gasp."

Earth Still Growing.

In the eary days of its history the earth grew rapidly by the addition of meteoric matter. It is still growing in the same manner, though scarcely to an appreciable extent, for the mass of meteoric matter added yearly is reckoned to be only 20,000 tons. In the course of ages the larger planets have swept up practically all the fragments of the original disruption, and the only available source of supply of meteoric matter seems to be that brought by comets.

A Cup of Chocolate

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

This is a story of one of the world's most prominent sovereigns, who has recently died.

A waiter in a coffee shop in Vienna was arranging the tables, seeing that the ware that is usually kept on them was in order, when the door opened and a gentleman walked in and asked for a cup of chocolate.

"You are too early," said the waiter. "Do you suppose we can serve guests till 2 o'clock in the morning and be up at 4 to begin another day? You'll get nothing here till 9 o'clock. Be off with you!"

The stranger made no reply, but left the shop. Walking across the street, the waiter watching him the while, he entered another coffee shop and made the same request.

"Sit down, sir," said the landlord cheerily. "The chocolate will be ready in a moment."

While the guest was waiting for his chocolate he conversed with the landlord. He did not take the proffered seat, but walked back and forth. He asked many questions about what was going on in the neighborhood—whether the people were satisfied with their condition, how the city government suited them and if the inspectors troubled them much.

While they were talking the landlord's daughter, Rosina, a very pretty girl, came in with the chocolate. The stranger wished her good day and made some very pretty speeches to her. When she went out, pouring the chocolate, he said to her father:

"She is a nice girl. But I warn you that flowers are not always in bud nor even in bloom. She should be married before she fades."

The landlord, who stood before his guest, with a napkin on his arm, shrugged his shoulders, spread out his hands on either side and rolled up his eyes.

"She is fading very fast," he said, "not from age, for she is only nineteen; but because she loves a young man, and since I have no dowry to give her she cannot marry him."

"Who is the young man?" asked the stranger.

"He is an optician, a maker of glasses, a fine young man. He served his term in the army and was very brave. He fought for the emperor at Sadowa and received a medal for saving a standard from falling into the hands of the enemy. He was badly wounded and was brought home here and put in a hospital. My daughter was serving as nurse, and she took care of the young soldier. It was doubtless due to her care that he recovered."

"Why do you not represent the case to the emperor?" asked the stranger. "He should pay for the lives of his soldiers. Your daughter should receive a dowry from the government for saving the brave young man."

"The emperor! The poor man is already beset by the cares of state without being troubled by a poor coffee house keeper's daughter. What with keeping so many different peoples together under his flag one would think he would go crazy."

"How much dowry does your daughter require to marry her soldier lover?"

"A thousand crowns."

By this time the stranger had swallowed his chocolate.

"I would advise you," he said, "to send your daughter with her lover to the emperor, that she may tell how she saved one of his soldiers, and perhaps he will give her a dowry."

"Are you crazy?" asked the landlord in astonishment at such a proposition.

"Not at all. I am perfectly sane."

"Why, she could not even get an audience with the emperor. And if she did it would be shameful for her to bother the good man with her affairs."

"Nonsense! The emperor would be glad to listen to a petition from a young girl who had saved a life for him. And, as for securing an audience, I will attend to that for you. Give me pen and paper."

The landlord, wondering whether he was awake or dreaming or out of his senses, brought writing materials, and the stranger scribbled something on a bit of paper and handed it to the landlord, saying:

"Give that to your daughter and tell her to go to the palace tomorrow at 12 o'clock noon. And be sure she takes her soldier with her. They will be admitted to the emperor's presence by presenting that paper, and I guarantee that he will listen to them kindly."

Without waiting to make explanations or to reply to questions the man left the shop. The landlord as soon as he had gone rushed to the door and watched him as he strolled leisurely down the street. The waiter opposite who had refused to serve the stranger also went to the door, wondering what had so interested his neighbor in the man. Together they examined the paper he had left, but could make nothing out of it except three letters—F. J. and R.

All that day and in the evening the family of the landlord, with Rosina and her soldier, discussed the matter of risking making fools of themselves by going to the palace.

The decision was to go. They were admitted on the stranger's pass, and on entering a room where the emperor received petitions they saw that he was the stranger who had drunk chocolate in their coffee house.

He received them with a smile and without requiring them to state their case handed Rosina a check for a thousand crowns.

A Saugerties Genius.

Charles Dickhaut of Saugerties has just completed a car of his own design and making and on Saturday afternoon while his car was standing on Wall street a large crowd assembled and admired its lines. The body is built upon a Locomobile chassis and was entirely designed and built by Mr. Dickhaut. The body work is so out of the ordinary and unique that the car attracts a great deal of attention where ever seen. It is of torpedo design, trimmed with black walnut throughout and the workmanship is of the finest. Many a day might were spent by the designer in perfecting the lines and in the final construction work and his many friends are looking forward to the future when Mr. Dickhaut's ability along this line will be available to car owners. The car is without a doubt one of the finest and classiest looking cars in Ulster County.

Memorial Sunday at Alligerville.

Roundout Valley Lodge, K. of P., were present in a body and notwithstanding the inclement weather the hall was filled. After appropriate recitations and the reading of the roster, Mayor Canfield gave a patriotic and fraternal address. All present voted it one of the most successful memorial services ever held there.

SUFFRAGE LEADERS GATHER.

County Organization Has "Suff" Colors for Distribution.

A large number of suffrage leaders attended the executive meeting of the Ulster County Woman Suffrage Party, which was held on Saturday in the Whitwyck Inn. Mrs. Gouam Norrie of Staatsburg, chairman of the 10th Campaign District, presided over the meeting. Plans for carrying on the suffrage war service in the County were discussed and arrangements made for the Ulster County Suffrage Convention which will take place the latter part of June.

It is requested that every woman in Kingston who is a suffragist show the suffrage colors on Decoration Day and badges may be obtained for that purpose, free of cost, at the suffrage desk in the Red Cross Headquarters, 240 Fair Street.

SENATOR MARCONI.

INVENTOR OF WIRELESS IS MEMBER OF ITALIAN MISSION.

Senator Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph, is at the head of the Italian War Commission in Washington. Senator Marconi, it is reported, has devised some means of destroying German submarines. It is said that he will hold several conferences with Thomas A. Edison regarding his invention. This photograph of Senator Marconi was made as he left the war department at Washington after a visit to Secretary of State Lansing.

Three Classes of Soap.

While there are many kinds of soaps, it is said that those commonly used may be divided into three classes. The first class comprises fine white soaps and scented soaps, the second class, the coarse household soaps, and the third class the soft soaps.

KINGSTON'S SHARE IS $793,000

Based on the aggregate capital, surplus, undivided profits, and deposits (less deposits of other banks) of the bank in this city, the share of Kingston in the Liberty Loan amount to $793,000, according to figures prepared by the Liberty Loan Committee.

The committee feels that based on the relative subscriptions in the placing of other large issues, the Second Federal Reserve District must subscribe to a materially larger proportion of the whole issue than would be indicated by a prorating among the Federal Reserve Districts according to bank resources. In order to make the issue the success which the committee expects, it will be necessary that the Second Federal Reserve District should subscribe a minimum of a billion dollars to the loan.

It is urged that the local organization should aid to secure subscriptions of $793,000 as a minimum.

Memorial Services Held.

Memorial services were held at the Clove Reformed Church at High Falls Sunday morning. All the churches of the place joined in a union meeting and there was a large attendance. The Rev. G. C. Dangremond had charge of the services. Leroy Krom read the roster of the living and the dead of those who had served in the civil war from that vicinity with the burial places of the latter. There were several appropriate recitations by the children and singing of patriotic songs. Mayor Canfield delivered a patriotic address and a standing vote of thanks was given him for his stirring remarks. Members of Company C, Tenth Regiment, from Albany were in attendance, and the bugler of the company gave the call in opening the services and the recall in closing.

Tagore on American Women.

Women who want something very special and violent in their surroundings to keep their interests active prove their poverty of life. Apparently numbers of women as well as men in this country condemn the things that are commonplace. They are always hankering after something which is out of the common, straining their powers to produce a spurious kind of originality that merely surprises, though it may not satisfy. But such efforts are not a real sign of vitality. On the contrary, I think that they have been a cause of much of the unhealthiness in your society.—Rabindranath Tagore in Ladies' Home Journal.

A Mighty Man.

Topham, the prince of English strong men, had knots of muscles where the armpits are in the ordinary man. He could take a bar of iron one and one-half inches in diameter and five feet long, place the middle of it over the back of his neck and then force the ends forward until they met before his face. On one occasion he called upon a village blacksmith and made of him an everlasting enemy by picking up a number of horseshoes and snapping them in two as easily as if they had been pine sticks.

LAWS OF NEW YORK—By Authority. CHAP. 72.

AN ACT to amend the tax law in relation to the determination and apportionment of mortgage taxes.

Became a law March 29, 1917, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section two hundred and sixty of chapter sixty two of the laws of nineteen hundred and nine, entitled "An act in relation to taxation constituting chapter sixty of the consolidated laws," as added by chapter three hundred and thirty-five of the laws of nineteen hundred and sixteen, is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 260. Determination and apportionment by the state tax commission. When the real property covered by a mortgage is situated in more than one tax district, the state tax commission shall deduct from the relative assessments of such real property in the respective tax districts covered by such mortgage any prior existing mortgage liens and shall then apportion the tax paid on such mortgage between the respective tax districts upon the basis of the relative assessments of such real property as the same appear on the last assessment rolls less the deduction, if any. If, however, the whole or any part of the property covered by such a mortgage is not assessed upon the last assessment-roll or rolls of the tax district or districts in which it is situated, or is so assessed, as a part of a larger tract, that the assessed value cannot be determined, or if improvements have been made to such an extent as materially to change the value of the property so assessed, the tax commission may require the local assessors in the respective tax districts or the mortgagor, or mortgagee, to furnish sworn appraisals of the property in each tax district, and upon such appraisals shall determine the apportionment. If such mortgage covers real property in two or more counties, the tax commission shall determine the proportion of the tax which shall be paid by the recording officer who has received the same to the recording officers of the other counties in which are situated the tax districts entitled to share therein. When any recording officer shall pay any portion of a tax to the recording officer of another county, he shall forward with such tax a description sufficient to identify the mortgage on which the tax has been paid, and the recording officer receiving such tax shall note on the margin of the record of such mortgage the fact of such payment, attested by his signature. The tax commission shall make an order of determination and apportionment in respect to each such mortgage and file a certified copy thereof with the recording officer of each county in which a part of the mortgaged real property is situated.

When the real property covered by a mortgage is partly within the state and partly without the state it shall be the duty of the tax commission to determine what portion of the mortgage or of advancements thereon shall be taxable under this article. Such determination shall be made in the following manner: First: Determine the respective values of the property within and without the state, and deduct therefrom the amount of any prior existing mortgage liens, excepting such liens as are to be replaced by the advancements under consideration. Second: Find the ratio that the net value of the mortgaged property within the state bears to the net value of the entire mortgaged property. Third: Make the determination of the portion of the mortgage or of the advancements thereon which shall be taxable under this article by applying the ratio so found. If a mortgage covering property partly within and partly without the state is presented for record before such determination has been made, or at the time when an advance is made on a corporate trust mortgage or on a prior advance mortgage, there may be presented to the recording officer a statement in duplicate verified by the mortgagor or an officer or duly authorized agent of the mortgagor, in which shall be specified the net value of the property within the state and the net value of the property without the state covered by such mortgage. One of such statements shall be filed by the recording officer and the other shall be forthwith transmitted by him to the state tax commission. The tax payable under this article before the determination by the tax commission shall be computed upon such portion of the principal indebtedness secured by the mortgage or of the sum advanced thereon, as the net value of the mortgaged property within the state bears to the net value of the entire mortgaged property as set forth in such statement. The tax commission shall on receipt of the statement from the recording officer and on not less than ten days' notice served personally or by mail upon the mortgagor, the mortgagee and the state comptroller, proceed to make the required determination. In determining the separate values of the property within and without the state the tax commission shall consider only the tangible property, real and personal, except that leases of real property shall be deemed tangible property. For the purpose of determining such value the tax commission may require the mortgagor or mortgagee to furnish by affidavit or verified report such information or data as it may deem necessary, and may require and take the testimony of the mortgagor, mortgagee or any other person. A certified copy of the order of determination and apportionment shall be delivered personally or by mail to the mortgagor, the mortgagee and the state comptroller, and any tax under such determination which has not been paid shall be paid within ten days after service of such certified copy; if, however, the tax paid at the time of filing the statement hereinbefore specified with the recording officer is in excess of the tax determined to be payable, the certificate of determination and apportionment shall direct the recording officer to refund to the person paying such tax the amount of such excess; provided that no refund shall be made of any taxes paid pursuant to a previous determination.

The tax commission shall adopt rules to govern the procedure and the manner of taking evidence in all the matters provided for by this section and may require verified statements to be furnished either by boards of assessors, recording officers or other persons having knowledge in relation to such matters. Failure on the part of any person or officer to furnish a statement or other data when required so to do pursuant to the provisions of this section shall render such person or officer liable to a penalty of one hundred dollars to be recovered by the attorney-general in an action brought in the name of the people of the state of New York.

In making determination and apportionment under this section the tax commission shall consider all advancements made upon a mortgage after July first, nineteen hundred and six, in the aggregate, which aggregate shall be obtained by adding all advancements made after July first, nineteen hundred and six, to the last advancement and the total shall be treated as a whole mortgage, considering the status of the property as of the time the last advancement is made. In all cases under this section in which it shall appear that the prior incumbrances exceed the assessed or appraised value of the property in one or more tax districts the commission may, by a process of equalization or otherwise, establish a basis of apportionment that will be equitable and fair.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, ss:

I have compared the preceding with the original law on file in this office, and do hereby certify that the same is a correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original law.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

Rose-Gorman-Rose, Inc.

Years Ago

Our grandmothers and our great-grandmothers plucked their own feathers for pillows. But now, in the present day pillow industry, great quantities of second-hand feathers are used.

The unclean condition of these old feathers, and the decayed animal matter in the quills makes them unhealthful and unsanitary. But not so with

Robinson-Roders Pillows

They are guaranteed to contain only new feathers. And what is more, are cleaned and sterilized to destroy even the animal matter in the quills.

We carry Robinson-Roders Pillows in all standard sizes and a large variety of attractively designed, featherproof ticks.

Secret of Life.

"Life," wrote Herbert Spencer after spending almost infinite pains on the definition, "is the continual adjustment of internal relations to external relations," which is merely a confession that, however much we may know of what a living organism does, we know nothing of what it is.

Nor has any more recent writer improved on the definition.

It is as true as it was when Huxley wrote it that "of the causes which have led to the origination of living matter we know absolutely nothing."

CAST FLOWERS ON BOSOM OF HUDSON

Impressive Memorial Services Carried Out at Kingston Point on Sunday Afternoon—Eloquent Speakers Eulogize Heroic Soldier and Sailor Dead.

Memorial services for the soldier and sailor dead attracted a crowd of nearly 200 people to Kingston Point Sunday afternoon in spite of the rain and the impressive exercises under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Tappen Camp, Sons of Veterans, together with members of the camp and of Pratt Post, G. A. R., were carried out in the park pavilion overlooking the Hudson.

A procession forming at the trolley entrance to the park was headed by children and made up of Grand Army veterans and of Tappen Camp and the Ladies Auxiliary. The procession then marched through the park to the pavilion where a program was carried out under the direction of Mrs. Eugenia A. Flicker, past president of the auxiliary.

The singing of "Nearer, My God to Thee," opened the exercises and the Rev. A. H. Haynes then pronounced the invocation. Rear Admiral Francis J. Higginson, retired, made a brief address eulogizing the services and worth of the soldier and sailor dead of the nation. County Attorney John W. Eckert, the Rev. George M. Cranston and Major James H. Everett also spoke, voicing sentiments appropriate to the occasion. Flowers were then cast upon the water, the pretty custom losing none of its impressiveness despite the inclemency of the weather. A wreath from Pratt Post was among the floral tributes consigned to the Hudson. The exercises concluded with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

HONOR DEAN FIERO AT "DRY DINNER"

Judge Clearwater Among Notable Array of Legal Talent Gathered in Honor of Dean of Albany Law School and Former Member of Ulster Bar.

According to the Albany newspapers, a notable array of men dined at the Hotel Ten Eyck on Saturday evening in honor of Dean J. Newton Fiero, who has completed a quarter of a century of service on the faculty of the Albany Law School. Judge Clearwater, who was an early co-temporary of Mr. Fiero at the Ulster Bar, won one of the speakers, and was reserved until the last. He said that he had known Dean Fiero for forty-eight years, meeting him at the time when his head was not mellowed, but his judgment was ripe. That in coming to Albany to attend the anniversary dinner he was reversing the precedent set by Mark Antony in that he came to praise Caesar, and not to bury him. The judge said that Mr. Fiero belonged to that class of the profession daily becoming more rare in that he had devoted his life solely to it, regarding it as an honorable one; that he had honored the law, and the law had honored him. He said that he was at a loss to understand how members of the bar managed to combine with a learned profession the more lucrative and alluring methods of accumulating wealth. Always it had seemed to him that a lawyer who directs by his counsel, those who come to ask his advice, who had the conduct of large interests of the most important nature, is the organ of those who claim the most sacred rights, the defender of those who find themselves attacked in their persons, thir honor, or fortunes, brings forward and gives efficacy to their demands or repels the charges brought against them, who by his knowledge, his talents, his morality, wins the confidence and good will of his fellow citizens, is as important a factor in the advance of modern civilization as are many of those flamboyant captains of industry whose achievements it is the habit of the day so extravagantly to laud.

The judge said that frequently the Dean and he had differed upon many questions, that his visit to Albany might be said to be one of poetic reparation. There was, however, one topic upon which always they had agreed, and that is that the American system of justice is the best in the world. "Both of us," he said "have criticized its administration which is far from perfect, but our system is better than that of England, of which so many lawyers prate superficially, without knowing anything about it, and certainly far better than that of any of the countries of the continent of Europe."

The Albany newspapers say the judge convulsed his hearers by complimenting the trustees and faculty of the law school upon giving a dry dinner. He said that he had been speaking at dinners in Albany for thirty-five years, at which enough Chateau LaFitte and Moet and Chandon had been drunk to sink a submarine of the latest submersible type. That he knew that Albany had been preaching and professing patriotic abstention, but that it should practice what it preached was an astounding surprise to him. At first he was inclined to attribute the dryness of the dinner to a spasm of economy, but when he glanced over the assembly and saw that it was opulent beyond the dreams of avarice, he knew that it was the impulse of patriotic example that had led to the spartan simplicity which characterized it.

The dinner was attended by the regents of the university, the deans of eight law schools of the state, and by many of the most prominent residents of Albany.

Four Odd Fellows' Lodges to Parade

Four of the Odd Fellows' organizations in Kingston, whose total membership exceeds six hundred, are making extra efforts to secure a large turnout in the Memorial Day parade. The four Odd Fellows' lodges which will participate are Kosciusko, No. 86; Aretas, No. 172; Kingston, No. 413, and C. S. Clay, No. 528. The Odd Fellows will march as a body, and it is necessary that they assemble at the rooms of Kosciusko Lodge on Broadway promptly at 9:30 o'clock. Last year the Odd Fellows made a strong division in the Memorial Day parade and this year they expect to have a still larger number of members in line. The Odd Fellows will be headed by the Marlborough Band.

Rocks School Operetta.

The pupils of the Rocks School will give their annual entertainment at the village hall, Rifton, Friday evening, June 1. The program will consist of an operetta, "Betsy Ross" by thirty-five pupils. A comedy in three scenes "Vice Versa." Also several dialogues, solos and tableaux. Refreshments for sale after the entertainment.

Burned Under Automobile.

While at work under an automobile making repairs, Charles L. Timmerman was badly burned in a Catskill garage Saturday when two electric wires came together, igniting the gasoline cloth he was using. Fellow employes dragged him from beneath the car and by prompt use of a fire extinguisher saved Timmerman's life.

Wiltwyck Chapter Notice.

CONTRADICT STATEMENTS.

Official of Bostonian Waist, Inc., Tells of Strike.

Officers of the Bostonian Waist, Inc., wish to contradict a statement published in The Freeman Friday in which striking employes claimed that all the employes of the company were to have their wages reduced. Mr. Morgen, one of the officials, said today:

"This statement is an absolute falsehood and it is but natural that the leaders of the strike were compelled to lie to the girls in order to work up a grievance against the concern. Nevertheless, you can announce to the strikers, that under no circumstances, whatsoever, will we take the three ring-leaders, Louis Schwartz, Samuel Gross and Samuel Friedman, back in our employ. If necessary, we will close our factory, but again we wish to emphasize the fact that the above three cannot come back to work."

Garden Club Entertained.

Last week the members of the Ulster Garden Club were most delightfully entertained by their president, Mrs. Francis J. Higginson, at a luncheon given at the Haldane residence, "Glenwood," in Cold Springs. Among the other guests, numbering in all about fifty women, were the members of the Phillipstown Garden Club of Garrison, for whose membership in the Garden Clubs of America, the Ulster Garden Club stood sponsor. Following the elaborate and charming luncheon, the guests were invited to join in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," during which time an historic flag was unfurled. The American flag which flew from the mast of the old Merrimac, had been presented to Rear Admiral Higginson, who later made it a gift to Mrs. Higginson, and this was the flag which was unfurled on this notable occasion. Later in the afternoon the guests visited the home and beautiful grounds of Stuyvesant Fish and from there motored to the residence of Mrs. Samuel Sloan, president of the Phillipstown Garden Club, where they were entertained at tea. Returning, the Kingston party, which motored to Cold Springs, reached home in the early evening after a day never to be forgotten in the history of the Ulster Garden Club.

The regular meeting of the Ulster Garden Club will be held tomorrow, Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Coykendall.

Truth Survives

What is true cannot be made truer The world may question it and attack it and howl at it and tear it but it will survive It makes no difference either how humble the source from which the truth may emanate It is not a question of authority If it is truth it may come from a carpenter of Nazareth or from an attic in the Latin quarter sooner or later all the world will accept it—Lester F Ward

Corn in Home Garden.

Sweet corn contains an average of 1.3 per cent of sugar. It requires only about 24 hours after the corn is picked for this sugar to disappear entirely; hence the need of growing one's own supply of corn, and of only picking it immediately before it is to be cooked if the corn is to be had in the best condition.

Any good agricultural soil, from a sandy loam to a fairly heavy clay loam, is adapted to corn growing. No particular type of soil is required. The soil, however, must be in good physical condition, and contain an abundant supply of available plant food. This eliminates soil that is mostly sand and gravel, or that is not properly drained. Fertilize the soil well, preferably with stable manure, 15 tons or more to the acre, plow or dig deeply, (at least 7 inches), and work the soil until it is fine.

Plan to make at least three successive plantings at intervals of two weeks. Doing so will give you fresh corn over a longer period than if all the corn were planted at one time. Plant in furrows 36 to 40 inches apart, and with a stalk of corn to each 12 inches of furrow. If hill planting is preferred, drop two or three extra kernels of corn in each hill to allow for loss, and later, after danger from cut worms, crows, etc., has passed, thin out to three stalks to the hill.

"Howling Mob," "Golden Bantam," "Country Gentleman," and "Stowell's Evergreen," are excellent varieties. "Country Gentleman" and "Stowell's Evergreen," are late varieties.

The first cultivation after the plants have appeared may be deep, after that cultivation should be shallow, (two inches deep), and frequent enough to maintain a mulch of fine loose soil over the surface.

Corn can be largely protected from cut worms by placing poisoned bait on each hill, or scattering it along the row. Poisoned bait is made as follows: Moisten twelve pounds of wheat bran with sufficient molasses to make a stiff dough. Work a quarter pound of Paris Green or Arsenate of Lead into the dough.

Daylight at Night.

One of Edison's latest inventions is a portable searchlight, mounted on cart wheels, which will illuminate the side of a building at a distance of over 200 feet, producing at night practically the glare of noonday. From the axle is suspended a box of batteries, which are always ready for use.

PURDY BROTHERS BEAT UP YALLER

Officer O'Neil Saturday Evening Arrested Them for Public Intoxication and Fighting on Street—Purdys Preferred Army Life to Jail.

Saturday evening Officer O'Neil arrested Byron Purdy, 23 years old, and his brother, Orville Purdy, 20 years old, for fighting Frank Mains, 40 years old, on West Union street near Broadway. They spent Saturday night and Sunday in jail and were arraigned before Recorder Lang this morning in recorder's court.

The Purdy brothers were arraigned first and told their side of the affray. Byron was dressed in his working clothes while Orville had on his Sunday best. They said they had been to the carnival and had returned home to a relative's house who was not home when they got there and they started out again when Yaller picked a fight with them. The Purdy brothers were mixed up in a chicken robbery at Woodstock and one of them was paroled to County Judge Jeremias at the time and the other served some time in jail.

They claim they were not drunk Saturday evening.

On the other hand Yaller said he was passing peacefully by on the street when they set upon him and beat him up. Yaller exhibited to the court a lump on his head and reported some of his clothing and showed what marks where he claimed the brothers had kicked him. Yaller said he had been discharged from jail Saturday morning and had spent the day at home making a carriage for his wife and had planted some garden truck. That evening he and his wife had gone to a show. He confessed that he had had a few beers but was not drunk he said.

Sergeant Hanley informed the court that the information he had received of the affair showed that Yaller had been set upon by the brothers.

Recorder Lang sentenced Yaller to five days in jail for not keeping his promise to abstain from drinking booze, and sentenced the Purdy brothers to 60 days each in the county jail for creating a public disturbance in fighting and using indecent language on the public street.

The trio were led from the court by Sergeant Hanley and when the Purdy brothers had thought it over in police headquarters while waiting for the patrol wagon to take them to jail they sent word back to the court by Sergeant Hanley that if their sentence was remitted they would enlist in the army.

Recorder Lang sent them word that they had already enlisted in Sheriff Shultis's agricultural army and he would not remit the sentence.

It might be added that the Purdys' court record would probably bar them from being accepted in the army.

DR. WU, INSTALLED AS CHINESE PREMIER, FAVORS WAR ON GERMANY.

Dr. Wu Ting Fang, former Chinese Minister to the U. S., has been appointed Premier of China and is empowered to form a new cabinet. This action will probably end the deadlock in the Chinese Parliament and result in an open declaration of war on Germany.

He was appointed Minister to the U. S. in 1896. He was recalled in 1902, but was reappointed in 1907 and served until 1909. In Washington he established a reputation for witty repartee and audacity in asking questions which made him the subject of daily comment.

Drier for Photographers.

Chloride of calcium is sometimes used to absorb moisture and keep certain photographic products dry, such as platinum paper or carbon paper, but a photographer has discovered that cardboard of the heavy kind will act as a good drier. The card is used in rough sheets, it being well dried by heat and then wrapped in waxed paper so as to leave only the edge of the board free and thus not absorb moisture too quickly.

"BEER is a beverage prepared from cereals, water, hops and yeast. It contains 5 per cent. solid matter and only 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol. Beer is not intoxicating in ordinary quantities and is one of the few foods that is free from bacteria."

PROF. CHANDLER, of Columbia University.

What is Beer?

In starting to tell what beer really is, it would perhaps be better to tell what beer is not. Beer, on account of its small per cent. of alcohol, is no more a dangerous intoxicant than coffee, with its small per cent. of caffeine, is a dangerous drug.

There is no mystery about beer. All beers are made from an extract of cereals such as barley, malt, rice and corn. The starch of the cereals is converted during the brewing process into sugar. The liquid is boiled and hops are added to impart their agreeable bitter taste and flavor. After boiling, the liquid is cooled and fermented with yeast.

If there is anything harmful in any of these materials it is yet to be discovered. The same materials, with the exception of the hops, are used in the manufacture of bread and in many of the food products of today, and the hop plant has never been suspected of being anything but a desirable tonic herb.

The fermenting process gives beer its life and stimulating power. It is the same process that goes on in cider making, but whereas the farmer making cider leaves much to chance, the brewer absolutely controls the ultimate result of his brewing. For by boiling his extract before fermentation it is sterilized and the yeast used is a pure culture especially selected for beer brewing.

The small percentage of alcohol in beer results naturally from the process of fermentation—just as in cider—but cider usually has more alcohol than beer. Some cider makers increase the amount of alcohol by adding sugar to the must. They want alcohol to keep cider from spoiling. The brewer brews so as to have only 3 to 4 per cent. alcohol and he relies on sterilization, cleanliness and an expensive system of refrigeration to keep his beer from spoiling.

HUDSON RIVER DAY LINE

RUNNING A CABLE UP HUDSON VALLEY

A silvery serpent of pliable lead pipe is pushing its way up the Hudson valley at the rate of four or five miles a day, when the going is good, and in its method and rate of travel are to be found a most interesting exhibition of New York telephone efficiency. A Ford car, two or three of 'em in fact, a potato bug sprayer and a lot of Yankee labor-saving ideas figure in this latest move to add to the attraction of Albany, New York and Kingston as talking points over Bell toll lines. With other apparatus, the three features cited have been doing some stunts for the past week along the Saugerties road where a corps of linemen is running the big cable which is to connect the capital with the metropolis.

At this stage of operations, the poles are up 110 feet apart, and the messenger support wire is all strung, this being a seven strand iron wire with lock aerial rings spaced at intervals of about eighteen inches. Within these rings or loops, is a small thread wire which is permanently replaced by the cable and it is this replacement that the interesting operations occur.

To begin with, the cable is a lead-covered tube about three inches in diameter and it encloses 212 pairs of wires. It is known as a 212 pair toll cable and is made specially for each section. The cable weighs eight pounds to the foot and the average length of cable on each of the big spools distributed along the highway is 600 feet, so the trick of putting some two tons of cable into place in one operation is well worth watching. To put it briefly, the cable is hauled through the loops by main force, the motive power coming from a three ton White truck.

The Ford takes first place in the connecting up of a section. It spins on ahead and when the end of a section is reached, the car is stopped and the rear axle jacked up. Projecting from spoke of one rear wheel are several iron bars, making a rude but effective drum. One end of the thread wire is attached thereto and at the other end of the section the heavy winch wire is affixed to the thread. The Ford is then started on low and the winch wire is pulled through in jig time. Then the Ford packs up and goes on to the next section to repeat the operation.

Ready for the Big Pull.

With the exit of the Ford, the White truck comes on the scene and anchors. To the winch wire on this machine is attached the heavy wire to which the cable is affixed by means of a basket hitch, a woven network of wire which spreads over about three feet of the heavy cable and distributes the strain of the pull for [illegible] lead pipe to bits such is the strain. All is in readiness at this end of the line for the signal.

At the opposite end, the big drum or spool of cable has been set up on jacks and a shaft and then a lineman equipped with a potato bug sprayer filled with light oil takes his place at the point where the cable enters the first pulley. The foreman blows a whistle, the truck starts its engine and with gasoline for power and kerosene to grease the ways, the big cable slips along through the loops at a steady clip which is usually maintained without a hitch until the end is pulled through at the point where the truck is stationed. The potato bug spray is kept going all the while the heavy cable is moving for without such lubrication the friction would be considerable of an obstacle in itself. The spray took the place of a paint brush as being more economical and effective.

To pull the 600 foot section into place requires an average of three minutes from the time the whistle is blown but the bit has been done in fifteen seconds less time.

Pulls Another Before Moving.

Once the section is hauled through, the truck remains at the same point and proceeds to pull through the wire and cable from the opposite direction, the winch wire already having been pulled through a few moments before by the indefatigable Ford. The rate of progress is sometimes as high as five and six miles a day, a speed undreamed of in the days when the horse was the chief motive power.

With the second section pulled through, the truck jumps two sections up the road and repeats the operation, the crew in charge of the cable spools, working in between the "thread-pulling" Ford and the big truck operators. It is a marvel of efficiency only to be likened to packing house methods. At that, the Bell force goes the meat packers one better as they do not lose a single grunt or squeal. The entire job is moved by whistles, the same as men are moved in dashes from the trenches on the French front. Not an order is yelled, each unit working in silence and pushing ahead without loss of energy or time in talk.

Obstacles at Highland.

The part of the cable now being run in the vicinity of Kingston is known as the Beacon-Catskill section and it is planned to extend the line to Albany this season. Some of the obstacles encountered in the big pull over the mountain at Highland were photographed by men from the company offices. At Highland, the truck operated from the road, pulling from a spool of cable at its side, the winch wire being run up the steep incline to a pulley high up on the private right of way, one of the roughest bits of country yet covered by the Bell force in this country.

J. E. Drum, construction supervisor, is in charge of the work and with him is Frank Laird, supervising foreman. Every idea developed anywhere in the Bell organization is instantly taken advantage of by headquarters and the field forces all over the country. But for efficiency in organization, labor-saving methods and good results, the Kingston district furnishes an example that is attracting the attention of the construction heads of the entire corporation. Meanwhile, the cable is being pushed northward toward Saugerties.

Garden Pests.

Planting is only preparatory to harvesting, and if the crop is greatly reduced by insect enemies, our labor amounts to little. The common garden pests exact a heavy and usually easily avoided toll. Some of the best methods of handling this part of the garden problem are outlined below.

The black flea beetle, only about ⅛ of an inch long, active, jumping, attacks young tomatoes, potatoes, beans, cucumbers, etc., gnawing irregular areas on one side of the leaf and occasionally killing the plants. Apply a poisoned bordeaux mixture or simply arsenate of lead at the beginning of the attack, or dust with air-slaked lime. Cucumber and other vines may be protected with cloth or wire netting over each hill.

Cut worms occur in most gardens. They are dull grayish caterpillars, 1½ to 2 inches long, which shelter in the soil during the day and gnaw or cut off young plants at night. Young cabbage, tomato, or pepper plants can be protected when transplanting with strips of newspaper about 2 inches wide wrapped around the stem so that when the plants are set the paper will extend a little below the surface of the soil and an inch or so above. Other crops, if troubled by cut worms, can be protected by the use of poisoned baits, such as lettuce or fresh cloved dipped in Paris Green or lead arsenate sprays and distributed along the injured rows, preferably just before sundown.

Potato beetles are always ready for the young plants and can be controlled very well in small gardens by hand picking, using a pan partly filled with water and a little kerosene. Later look for the masses of yellowish orange eggs on the under side of the leaves and crush them. Several sprayings at approximately two-week intervals with arsenate of lead and bordeaux mixture (or the poison by itself) are better, since this not only kills bugs but protects against blight.

Squash vines are seriously injured by the black flea beetle, the striped cucumber beetle, the squash bug and the squash vine borer. The first is noticed above and the measures recommended are equally effective against the bright yellow and black-striped cucumber beetle.

The squash bug is a gray stink bug about ⅝ of an inch long. It appears on the young plants, deposits clusters of bronze-colored eggs on the under side of the foliage, and its feeding results in wilting leaves. Place chips or similar shelters near the vines and each morning kill the insects resting underneath. Find and destroy the eggs.

The squash vine borer causes wilting of entire runners, due to the work of a white caterpillar in the stem. Locate the weak place by feeling, slit the infested stem, kill the borer, and then cover the wounded part with an inch or so of soil. The runner will recover in many cases.

The cabbage worm is a greenish caterpillar which develops from eggs laid by the whitish butterflies seen about cabbages. Capture the butterflies with nets and kill them. Look for small holes in the leaves and destroy the caterpillars before they cause material injury by dusting with hellebore, pyrethrum or even lime.

Onion maggots, less than ½ inch long, attack the bulbs of onions, causing wilting, and may destroy much of the crop. Badly infested plants should be pulled and destroyed; otherwise the maggots may migrate to the next plant in the row. A moderate infestation may be checked by removing as much of the soil from the base of the plants as is safe in the morning of a good day, and replacing it towards night. There should be enough drying to drive away or kill the maggots, and yet enough to injure the plants.

Arsenate of lead in a form suitable for use on plants may be obtained through most seed stores. Apply at the rate of two pounds of the paste, or one pound of the powder, to 50 gallons of water.

U. S.

There is a little monogram
We see where'er we go;
It offers us protection
Against a foreign foe.
It stands for light and progress
In every foreign clime,
And its glory and its greatness
Are the themes of many a rhyme.

But few have ever really known
And few would ever guess
What our country means by marking
All her chattels with U. S.:
It may stand for United States,
Or yet for Uncle Sam;
But there's still another meaning
To this simple monogram.

We see it on our bonds and bills,
And on our postal cards;
It decorates our Capitol,
Shadowed by Stripes and Stars,
In all our barracks, posts, and forts
It plays a leading part,
And the jolly sailor loves it
And enshrines it in his heart.

Now have you guessed the message
Which these capital letters bear?
Or recognized the symbol good
They're spreading everywhere?
Echo the joyful tidings,
And let the people know
That the U. S. of our nation means:

Matrimonial Candidates.

Among the curious advertisements published in a paper of the Punjab, India, is one of a young man who wishes to marry. He says: "I am of handsome physique and excellent health. My family is descended from the respectable caste of the Khatris. I am twenty-one years old and wish to find a young girl between fourteen and eighteen who has good health, literary tastes and is of good parentage."

Another notice announces the engagement of a lad, eleven years old, "who knows how to speak Hindu, Gurmukhi, Urdu, Persian and English; who is still in school and does not wish to marry before he is thirteen (?), as he wishes to continue his studies."

Oven Efficiency.

Some women find a use for both their range oven and a small removable oven at the same time. When baking cookies, set the small oven on the front of the stove and use both ovens. You will be through in a short time.

When you want to cook one kind of food slowly and another rapidly, set the small oven on at the back of the stove and use it for slow heat. Keep the range oven hot. In this way you may bake custards, apples or light bread as slowly as desired and at the same time be cooking pies or biscuits in a hot oven.

Newest Hats.

Fabrics are greatly used by the milliners, and whole hats, crowns and brims are fashioned of crepe de chine, georgette, chiffon, satin, taffeta or whatever the designer happens to fancy. Georgette and crepe de chine are perhaps more used than any of the other materials, always excepting nets and laces, and a hat entirely covered with crape and showing straw only in the facing of the wide brim is sometimes untrimmed save for a drapery and knot of the crape. Other crape covered models are flower trimmed or feather trimmed.

FROM THE FRONT

Dr. Carrel's Wife Was Only a Day Behind the Germans.

FIRST AMBULANCE OVER.

In her letter of appeal for clothing and food Mme. Alexis Carrel, wife of Dr. Carrel, thus describes her entrance into a city a day after it had been retaken by the British-French soldiers:

"On Sunday the news of the German retreat from Noyon reached me, and I pushed to Ribecourt, at four kilometers distance. There I found that the

bridges had been blown up Instead of lingering, I returned, as I had seen the cavalry fording the stream

"However, on the morning of Monday, the 19th, I asked our head surgeon for an ambulance, but he refused, as he suspected my motives and did not think it necessary or sensible for me to be killed. I then went to the chauffeur and ordered the ambulance out on the road and filled it with what I found that seemed necessary and then urged the man to drive it. He answered me that we could not go unless we had the necessary permits.

"I replied that this was no time to wait for permits. In a very short time I reached the bridge which was being temporarily put up, watched the work for twenty minutes, then dashed up to this structure, and am glad to say mine was the first ambulance to cross. I joined the heavy artillery, and when shouted at by a sentinel I answered, 'Service, service,' and passed on with the artillery. We had to wait for a second bridge to be constructed and then found ourselves in Noyon, only twenty-four hours after the last Germans had moved away.

"Every woman between the ages of fourteen and thirty had been carried off by Germans nine days before the retreat began Thus all these poor people whom we found crowded in the cellars had hideous tales to tell.

"None of the French civil population had had any meat of any kind for seventeen months. They had lived on black bread and rice Many had died in their struggle to keep alive, and the mortality among the children had been terrible. The bodies of those who had died had been kept for five days unburied in the midst of the living.

"In the orphan asylum, in a small room, the beds were so close together that they touched, and on these beds were children who had slept without mattresses, pillows or covering since the month of December, in their clothes, unwashed, unkempt and uncared for. No words can describe their condition.

"The wounded French who were still in the hospital had not been cared for and were being slowly taken into our own hospital at Compiegne, which is twenty-three kilometers from Noyon. The men who were brought in at midnight had been reduced to the last gasp."

Earth Still Growing.

In the early days of its history the earth grew rapidly by the addition of meteoric matter. It is still growing in the same manner, though scarcely to an appreciable extent, for the mass of meteoric matter added yearly is reckoned to be only 20,000 tons. In the course of ages the larger planets have swept up practically all the fragments of the original disruption, and the only available source of supply of meteoric matter seems to be that brought by comets.

A Cup of Chocolate

By ESTHER VANDEVEER

A waiter in a coffee shop in Vienna was arranging the tables, seeing that the ware that is usually kept on them was in order, when the door opened and a gentleman walked in and asked for a cup of chocolate.

"You are too early," said the waiter. "Do you suppose we can serve guests till 2 o'clock in the morning and be up at 4 to begin another day? You'll get nothing here till 9 o'clock. Be off with you!"

The stranger made no reply, but left the shop. Walking across the street the waiter watching him the while, he entered another coffee shop and made the same request.

"Sit down, sir," said the landlord cheerily. "The chocolate will be ready in a moment."

While the guest was waiting for his chocolate he conversed with the landlord He did not take the proffered seat, but walked back and forth. He asked many questions about what was going on in the neighborhood—whether the people were satisfied with their condition, how the city government suited them and if the inspectors troubled them much.

While they were talking the landlord's daughter, Rosina, a very pretty girl, came in with the chocolate The stranger wished her good day and made some very pretty speeches to her. When she went out, pouring the chocolate, he said to her father:

"She is a nice girl. But I warn you that flowers are not always in bud nor even in bloom. She should be married before she fades."

The landlord, who stood before his guest, with a napkin on his arm, shrugged his shoulders, spread out his hands on either side and rolled up his eyes.

"She is fading very fast," he said, "not from age, for she is only nineteen; but because she loves a young man, and since I have no dowry to give her she cannot marry him."

"Who is the young man?" asked the stranger.

"He is an optician, a maker of glasses, a fine young man. He served his term in the army and was very brave. He fought for the emperor at Sadowa and received a medal for saving a standard from falling into the hands of the enemy. He was badly wounded and was brought home here and put in a hospital My daughter was serving as nurse, and she took care of the young soldier. It was doubtless due to her care that he recovered."

"Why do you not represent the case to the emperor?" asked the stranger. "He should pay for the lives of his soldiers Your daughter should receive a dowry from the government for saving the brave young man."

"The emperor! The poor man is already beset by the cares of state without being troubled by a poor coffee house keeper's daughter. What with keeping so many different peoples together under his flag one would think he would go crazy."

"A thousand crowns."

By this time the stranger had swallowed his chocolate.

"I would advise you," he said, "to send your daughter with her lover to the emperor, that she may tell how she saved one of his soldiers, and perhaps he will give her a dowry."

"Are you crazy?" asked the landlord in astonishment at such a proposition.

"Not at all. I am perfectly sane."

"Why, she could not even get an audience with the emperor. And if she did it would be shameful for her to bother the good man with her affairs."

"Nonsense! The emperor would be glad to listen to a petition from a young girl who had saved a life for him. And, as for securing an audience, I will attend to that for you. Give me pen and paper."

The landlord, wondering whether he was awake or dreaming or out of his senses, brought writing materials, and the stranger scribbled something on a bit of paper and handed it to the landlord, saying.

"Give that to your daughter and tell her to go to the palace tomorrow at 12 o'clock noon. And be sure she takes her soldier with her. They will be admitted to the emperor's presence by presenting that paper, and I guarantee that he will listen to them kindly."

Without waiting to make explanations or to reply to questions the man left the shop The landlord as soon as he had gone rushed to the door and watched him as he strolled leisurely down the street. The waiter opposite who had refused to serve the stranger also went to the door, wondering what had so interested his neighbor in the man. Together they examined the paper he had left, but could make nothing out of it except three letters—F. J. and R

All that day and in the evening the family of the landlord, with Rosina and her soldier, discussed the matter of risking making fools of themselves by going to the palace.

The decision was to go. They were admitted on the stranger's pass, and on entering a room where the emperor received petitions they saw that he was the stranger who had drunk chocolate in their coffee house.

He received them with a smile and without requiring them to state their case handed Rosina a check for a thousand crowns.

Secret of Life.

"Life," wrote Herbert Spencer after spending almost indecent pains on the definition "is the continual adjustment of internal relations to external relations" which is merely a confession that however much we may know of what a living organism does we know nothing at all of what it is.

Nor has any more recent writer improved on the definition.

It is as true as it was when Huxley wrote it that "of the causes which have led to the origination of living matter we know absolutely nothing."

CAST FLOWERS ON BOSOM OF HUDSON

Impressive Memorial Services Carried Out at Kingston Point on Sunday Afternoon—Eloquent Speakers Eulogize Heroic Soldier and Sailor Dead

Memorial services for the soldier and sailor dead attracted a crowd of nearly 200 people to Kingston Point Sunday afternoon in spite of the rain and the impressive exercises under the auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Tappen Camp Sons of Veterans, together with members of the camp and of Pratt Post G. A. R. were carried out in the park pavilion overlooking the Hudson.

A procession forming at the trolley entrance to the park was headed by children and made up of Grand Army veterans and of Tappen Camp and the Ladies Auxiliary. The procession then marched through the park to the pavilion where a program was carried out under the direction of Mrs. Eugenia V. Flicker past president of the auxiliary.

The singing of "Nearer My God to Thee" opened the exercises and the Rev. W. H. Haynes then pronounced the invocation. Rear Admiral Francis J. Higginson retired made a brief address eulogizing the services and worth of the soldier and sailor dead of the nation. County Attorney John W. Eckert the Rev. George M. Cranston and Major James H. Everett also spoke voicing sentiments appropriate to the occasion. Flowers were then cast upon the water, the pretty custom losing none of its impressiveness despite the inclemency of the weather. A wreath from Pratt Post was among the floral tributes consigned to the Hudson. The exercises concluded with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

HONOR DEAN FIERO AT "DRY DINNER"

Judge Clearwater Among Notable Array of Legal Talent Gathered in Honor of Dean of Albany Law School and Former Member of Ulster Bar.

According to the Albany newspapers, a notable array of men dined at the Hotel Ten Eyck on Saturday evening in honor of Dean J. Newton Fiero, who has completed a quarter of a century of service on the faculty of the Albany Law School. Judge Clearwater who was an early contemporary of Mr. Fiero at the Ulster Bar, won one of the speakers, and was reserved until the last. He said that he had known Dean Fiero for forty-eight years, meeting him at the time when his head was not mellowed, but his judgment was ripe. That in coming to Albany to attend the anniversary dinner he was reversing the precedent set by Mark Antony in that he came to praise Caesar, and not to bury him. The judge said that Mr. Fiero belonged to that class of the profession daily becoming more rare in that he had devoted his life solely to it regarding it as an honorable one that he had honored the law and the law had honored him. He said that he was at a loss to understand how members of the bar managed to combine with a learned profession the more lucrative and alluring methods of accumulating wealth. Always it had seemed to him that a lawyer who directs by his counsel those who come to ask his advice who had the conduct of large interests of the most important nature, is the organ of those who claim the most sacred rights the defender of those who find themselves attacked in their persons, their honor, or fortunes, brings forward and gives efficacy to their demands or repels the charges brought against them who by his knowledge his talents his morality wins the confidence and good will of his fellow citizens is as important a factor in the advance of modern civilization as are many of those flamboyant captains of industry whose achievements it is the habit of the day so extravagantly to laud.

The judge said that frequently the Dean and he had differed upon many questions, that his visit to Albany might be said to be one of poetic reparation. There was, however one topic upon which always they had agreed, and that is that the American system of justice is the best in the world. "Both of us," he said "have criticized its administration which is far from perfect but our system is better than that of England, of which so many lawyers prate superficially without knowing anything about it and certainly far better than that of any of the countries of the continent of Europe."

The Albany newspapers say the judge convulsed his hearers by commending the trustees and faculty of the law school upon giving a dry dinner. He said that he had been speaking at dinners in Albany for thirty five years at which enough Chateau LaFitte and Moet and Chandon had been drunk to sink a submarine or the latest submersible type. That he knew that Albany had been preaching and professing patriotic abstention but that it should practice what it preached was an astounding surprise to him. At first he was inclined to attribute the dryness of the dinner to a spasm of economy but when he glanced over the assembly and saw that it was opulent beyond the dreams of avarice, he knew that it was the impulse of patriotic example that had led to the spartan simplicity which characterized it.

The dinner was attended by the regents of the university the deans of eight law schools of the state and by many of the most prominent residents of Albany.

CONTRADICT STATEMENTS.

Officers of the Bostonian Waist, Inc., wish to contradict a statement published in The Freeman Friday in which striking employes claimed that all the employes of the company were to have their wages reduced. Mr. Morgen, one of the officials, said today:

"This statement is an absolute falsehood and it is but natural that the leaders of the strike were compelled to lie to the girls in order to work up a grievance against the concern. Nevertheless, you can announce to the strikers, that under no circumstances, whatsoever, will we take the three ring-leaders, Louis Schwartz, Samuel Gross and Samuel Friedman, back in our employ. If necessary, we will close our factory, but again we wish to emphasize the fact that the above three cannot come back to work."

SOCIETY NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs Joseph Weber of No. 422 Hasbrouck avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret, to Thomas Carney of New York city. The wedding will take place in June.

Flanagan-Galvin.

Miss Marie Galvin and Christopher J. Flanagan were married at St. Joseph's Church at five o'clock Saturday afternoon by the Rev. John H. Briody, pastor of the church. The wedding was attended by many friends of the bride and groom. The bride's costume was of black and white striped taffeta, with white picture hat, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Alice Galvin, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of black and white taffeta and carried pink roses. Robert Howard was best man. Following the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Frank McCann, of Washington avenue, and later Mr. and Mrs. Flanagan left town on their honeymoon. Mr. Flanagan formerly was connected with the firm of Brinnier & Canfield and recently has been admitted to the bar. He is a brother-in-law of Mayor Canfield.

Dewey-Merrihew.

Ralph F. Dewey of Chicago and Grace E. Merrihew of Tillson were married on Wednesday, May 23, at half past three, in the Reformed Church at Tillson by the Rev. Joseph Millett, pastor of the church. Mr. Dewey's best man was Harry Root of Norfolk, Conn., and the bridesmaid was Miss May Osterhoudt of Kyserike. The bride was dressed in white silk poplin and carried a large bouquet of lilies of the valley and the bridesmaid was dressed in pink crepe de chine and carried pink roses. Ruth Merrihew, a niece of the bride, was ring bearer. Miss Helen Dewey of Canaan, Conn., a sister of the groom, played the wedding march. The bride marched in with her father and met the groom at the altar, and was given away by the father. Reception followed at the home of the bride, where there were 100 present. Refreshments were served by the bride's Sunday school class and they received many handsome presents, such as cut glass, linen, silver and a large sum of money. The bride and groom left for New York and arrived in Tillson on Saturday evening and were treated with a skimmington and will start on Monday for Canaan, Conn., to spend a few days with the parents of the groom and Thursday will go to Chicago, where they will make their home, and where the groom is superintendent of Borden's condensery. The bride will be very much missed in Sunday school, where she had a class of young people and also in the church. We all wish them success in life.

Garden Club Entertained.

Last week the members of the Ulster Garden Club were most delightfully entertained by their president, Mrs. Francis J. Higginson, at a luncheon given at the Haldane residence, "Glenwood," in Cold Springs. Among the other guests, numbering in all about fifty women, were the members of the Phillipstown Garden Club of Garrison, for whose membership in the Garden Clubs of America, the Ulster Garden Club stood sponsor. Following the elaborate and charming luncheon, the guests were invited to join in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner," during which time an historic flag was unfurled. The American flag which flew from the mast of the old Merrimac, had been presented to Rear Admiral Higginson, who later made it a gift to Mrs. Higginson, and this was the flag which was unfurled on this notable occasion. Later in the afternoon the guests visited the home and beautiful grounds of Stuyvesant Fish and from there motored to the residence of Mrs. Samuel Sloan, president of the Phillipstown Garden Club where they were entertained at tea. Returning, the Kingston party, which motored to Cold Springs, reached home in the early evening after a day never to be forgotten in the history of the Ulster Garden Club.

The regular meeting of the Ulster Garden Club will be held tomorrow, Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Coykendall.

Concert at Saugerties.

Tuesday evening a most remarkable concert will be given in the chapel of the Reformed Church in Saugerties for the benefit of the Saugerties Branch of the Navy League of the United States and the Red Cross. The concert is remarkable not only because of the delightful program but because of the objects for which it is to be given, and it is asked that as many Kingston people as possible patronize the same. The concert will be given at 8.15 o'clock and the tickets are fifty cents. The artists will all give their services and as they are all notable performers, Miss Bristol being a soprano soloist in one of the big New York churches; Miss Wemple having studied four years in New York, for grand opera, and Miss Katzenbach being well known in New York, where she has given her monologues for numerous charitable and patriotic entertainments. Corn in Home Garden

Sweet corn contains an average of 1 per cent of sugar It requires only about 24 hours after the corn is picked for this sugar to disappear entirely hence the need of growing a home supply of corn and of only picking it immediately before it is to be cooked if the corn is to be had in the best condition

Any good agricultural soil from a sandy loam to a fairly heavy clay loam is adapted to corn growing No particular type of soil is required The soil however must be in good physical condition and contain an abundant supply of available plant food This eliminates soil that is mostly sand and gravel or that is not properly drained Fertilize the soil well preferably with stable manure 15 tons or more to the acre plow or dig deeply (at least 7 inches) and work the soil until it is fine

Plan to make at least three successive plantings at intervals of two weeks Doing so will give you fresh corn over a longer period than if all the corn were planted at one time Plant in furrows 36 to 40 inches apart and with a stalk of corn to each 12 inches of furrow If hills are preferred drop two or three extra kernels of corn in each hill to allow for loss and later after danger from cut worms crows etc has passed thin out to three stalks to the hill

Howling Mob Golden Bantam Country Gentleman and Stowell's Evergreen are excellent varieties Country Gentleman and Stowell's Evergreen are late varieties

The first cultivation after the plants have appeared may be deep, after that cultivation should be shallow (two inches deep) and frequent enough to maintain a mulch of fine loose soil over the surface

Corn can be largely protected from cut worms by placing poisoned bait on each hill or scattering it along the row Poisoned bait is made as follows Moisten twelve pounds of wheat bran with sufficient molasses to make a stiff dough Work a quarter pound of Paris Green or Arsenate of Lead into the dough

Daylight at Night.

One of Edison's latest inventions is a portable searchlight mounted on cart wheels which may be thrown the side of a building at a distance of over 200 feet producing at night practically the glare of noonday. From the axle is suspended a box of batteries, which are always ready for use.

No sharp "corners"—no scratchy "edges"

Roll some Fatima smoke around in your mouth. Notice its finish, its fine, flavory surface. No sharp "corners," no scratchy "edges."

In other words, Fatimas are a comfortable smoke. It's the delicate balance of the good tobaccos in this Turkish blend that keeps Fatimas so cool and smooth and tasty to the end.

And it is this same blend that makes it possible for every Fatima smoker to "feel like a Prince," even after he has encored Fatimas all day long.
